A TALK WITH EX-GOV. KELLOGG.

The presence of ex-Gov. Kellogg, of Louisiana, in this city, presented an opportunity to learn the political situation in that State, and, accordingly, a TRIBUNE revening, and had a protracted conversation with him. He said in substance what follows: When I came North a few weeks ago there were strong hopes that there would be a fair canvass and a fair election. Mr. Nichols, the nominee of the Democratic party for Governor, had stated unqualifiedly that he was in favor of a fair canvass. Notwithstaning that, however, I had misgivings, because the nominee for Lieutenant-Governor is Mr. for Lieutenant-Governor is a Mr Wiltz, who was Speaker of the last House, and is known to be an ultra Democrat; he was the leader of the revo-ment in the organization of the Legislature in 1874; and the other candidates for the most part on their State ticket are representatives of the White-League element. Recent develop the White-League element. Recent developments have more than justified those misgivings. It is now evident, even if Mr. Nichols were so disposed, that the conservative element of the Democratic party is unable to control the party as a whole.

THE WHITE-LINE MARKET, has come to the front, and taken absolute control of the canvass. Of this there can be no

Louisiana by the same means. During the past week they have commenced systematically to assassinate and treat with violence the leading assassinate and treat with violence the leading white and colored Republicans in the more remote parishes, especially those bordering on Arkansas and Mississippi. One great object they have in view is to prevent the minority vote from being cast. Some of the parishes have from 600 to 700 Republican voters, mostly colored, and 800 or 900 white Democratic voters. The whites will endeavor to prevent the colored people from voting, while they will poll their full strength. tives. In the Sixth, Louis Schaffner, J. C. Barker, and William Vocke for Senate. In the Seventh, J. H. Kedzie and George Dunlap for Representatives.

THE STATE'S-ATTORNEYSHIP.
The candidates mentioned, so far, for the position of State's-Attorney are the following: Charles H. Reed, the present Prosegutor; John Lyle King, Hiram Barber, Luther Läffin Mills.
Among these John Lyle King seems to be a continually-gaining candidate. John has a peculiar way about him that evidently takes among the men who work hardest at the polls. He seems to know who will be the delegates, and those most enthusiastic in his support claim he can see his way through aside from this fact. They claim that if necessary he can command the support of two-thirds of the Republican lawyers of Chicago.

Charles H. Reed, if he desires a re-election, does not seem to be putting forward exertion anything like that he demonstrates in denouncing criminals that have come up before him so often. But, then, he may be waiting for some kind of an opportunity to work out a nomination for his assistant, Mr. Birch. Many say that Reed has all the money he wants, and would like some position where he would not be compelled to work so hard.

Hiram Barber has earnest friends working for him who predict certain success. Mr. Barber is a lawyer in good standing, and would make a good prosecutor. He has been mentioned repeatedly as a candidate for one of the Judgeships, as also for Congressional honors.

Luther Laffin Mills is rather young, but would make a neargetic State's Attorney. As far as the fight has progressed, it is ventured he is in second on King.

The emodiates for the Recordership are the present incumbent, James Stewart, Avery Moore, Otis Peltzer, Maj. Brockway, Maj. Waite, Louis Haas, and W. W. Bingham.

The chances of the present incumbent are rather gloomy. Enthusiastic admirer yet claim that a reaction will occur whereby he will compass the nomination.

Avery Moore is the present Supervisor of the West Town of Chicago. The experience of Mr. Moor icans had 600 or 700 votes, they were not al-voting, while they will poll their full strength. In 1874, in Bienville Parish, where the Republicans had 600 or 700 votes, they were not allowed to poll a single one. In Vernal and Sabine Parishes it was the same, and so in several other parishes where the whites predominate. In some of the parishes, where the voters are about equally divided, the whites prevent a large portion of the colored people from voting by intimidation and violence. They are determined to get possession of the State, since they know that the Democrats have obtained possession of neighboring States—Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas—by similar means. They are acting in concert, of course, with the Democratic party at large. They went to St. Louis willing to support anyman who could command the most votes in the North, and was most probable to secure sufficient electoral votes, united with the solid vote of the South, or nearly so, to elect him, knowing fulf well that, whoever he might be, or whatever platform might be adopted, they could control him, and, if necessary, disregard and set aside the platform. Their plan has long been, and they are systematically working to that end, to get possession of the National Government and recover the ground

THEY LOST BY THE WAR.

It is not open rebellion this time, but a determination to send a united delegation to the Lower House, with a view of retaining control of that branch of Congress, in co-operation with the class of men in the North known before the war as "doughfaces,"—Democrats who will always co-operate with the South. As to the Senate, none but Democrats are to be sent if they can help it. They trust to divisions in the North,—such as sent Thurman and Sherman from Ohio to the Senate,—toleration, and local issues. The Southern States have men if they can, who will co-operate together; and every one of the Southern States has the same representation, looking to their other, states they will send two men if they can, who will co-operate together; and every one of the Senate within the next

their leaders, when this shall have been attained, to INDEMNIFY THEMSELVES FOR LOSSES
sustained during the Rebellion, and, with the resources of the Federal Government, to eradicate the ravages made by the chariot of Mars. I do not anticipate that there will be any direct effort on the part of the Southern people to precipitate another war. They have had enough of that. But they intend, if they can, to get control of the Government and administer it in their own interest; and if the East and the West are not content with the manner in which they manage things they will have to make the best of it. If, then, a collision comes, it will not have been brought about by any forcible measures inaugurated by them.

Said the reporter: "Will no measures be taken to protect the colored people at the polls?"

CIRCUIT COURT CLERKSHIP.

There seems to be no opposition to the nomination of the present incumbent, Jacob Gross. The two shins, good and true, of the most patriotic in the ranks seem afraid of tackling that wooden leg of "Yacob." It is predicted, however, that other aspirants will turn up.

THE SHRIEVALTT.

The candidates for the Shrievalty are Gen. O. L. Mann, J. H. Clough, D. C. Crezier, John Stephens, Conrad Folz, Arthur Dixon, Col. Owen Stewart, Timothy Bradley, and Maj. Hugunin.

Of those candidates for the nomination on the Republican ticket, Mr. Clough seems to be the favorite. A gentleman well up in political informed the reporter that the combination was such that Clough must be nominated. The presence of Tim Bradley in the field, who was very strong in the country districts, must certainly help him. The record of Mr. Clough as a business man is too well known to require reference. His upright record while a member of the Board of County Commissioners is a piece and parcel of the creditable sunals of the county. Corrunties was the target, and man

When the platforms were stripped of their verbiage and people understood the real issues. Republican success could not be doubted. Beams the platform of this great party were good government and prosperity; while back of the platform of the Democrate there was no some principle, but merely glittering promises and desire for office on the part of mea who has sympathized with those who had labored to destroy the Union. He briefly criticised the pretensions of the Democrate, and concluded be again predicting a Republican victory.

WOULD NOT BRING ABOUT REFORM. If ever that gentleman was/seated in the Presidential chair, Washington would be crowded with representatives of the Lost Cause eager for officie; and what prospect for official purity would there then be! [Applause.] No one would knowingly vote for a man for President whe favored the Rebellion. It was claimed now that Tilden was always a Union man; but he defied any man to point to a single expression of the Democrate andidate during the War which proved this. Tilden was barricaded behind his law books during the War, and was dumb; and this little, shriveled mummy of a railroad lawyer was one of a committee who reported a resolution at the Chicago Convention declaring the War a failure. Mr. Storrs concluded an eloquent speech by saying that Tilden's place in history would not be alongside of Lincoln and other noble patriots, but among a crowd of sneaks and perjurers, who had not and were incapable of doing anything for their country. [Applause.]

The meeting then adjourned.

ABOUT TOWN.

Testerday at the Grand Pacific Hotel was both lively and busy. Local visitors were many at the rooms. Col. A. C. Babcock was about during a portion of the day, but retired to his room in the afternoon. He will probably be able to be around as usual to-morrow morning, as he is mending fast. Massachusett's letters to Secretary Dan Shepard statel that the chances for Hayes and Wheeler and Gov. Rice never were better. The Ohio State Republican Central Committee having invited Lorens Brentano, that gentleman will make several speeches in that State. He speaks in Cleveland on Tuesday evening next; Sandusky City. Wednesday, and at Toledo Thur sday evening. He will then return to canvass the Second Congressional District here.

THIRD WARD.

Notwithstanding the stormy night, the Third Ward Republicans assembled in full force at their resonas, No. 980 Wabash avenue, last evening at their regular weekly meeting. The house was full, and the audience was rewarded by hearing several good speeches. The first speaker was Col. LeGrand W. Perce, a well-known lawyer and ex-member of Congress from Mississippi, who gave an outline of the history of the Republican party, showing its glorious record, and the claims it had on the nation's confidence and support. He also read extracts from the Constitution of the notorious White League, showing the bloodthirsty opinions of Southern Democrats and their hatred of the negro. From that document the speaker showed what would be the probable conduct of Southern Democrats if they once obtained power, and the dire misfortunes to the country. A number of anecdotes were related within the speaker's experience horriby illustrating the more than barbarian cruelty of the League.

At the close of Col. Perce's address, the Hayes and Wheeler Ward Glee Club, who had given a song when the meeting was opened, favored the audience with a second musical exhibition.

The President of the Club announced that the publications of the State Central Committee were on hand at the club-rooms.

Mr. C. Greeley then made some remarks in his usual fiery style, and was followed by J. A. McDonald, and the Club adjourned at a very lete hour.

can Club was held at Benz's Hall last evening, William Williams in the chair. Gen. Chetlain addressed the Club; setting forth in the strongest possible light the fallacy of the claims of the Democratic party to reform. He reviewed the history of the party at some length.

E. B. Sherman was the next speaker, and entertained the audience in his usual logical style. He was frequently interrupted by demonstrations of approval by the audience.

After the transactions of some unimportant business, the Club adjourned for one week. The Democrats of the Thirteenth Ward rallied in a stable on Lake street last evening. The attendance of boys was quite large, yet the meeting was a failure. The promised speakers failed to appear.

PHITEENTH WARD.

The Republicans of the Fifteenth Ward met last night in Folz' Hall, corner of North Avenue and Larrabee street. Owing to the inclement weather the attendance was small, and the meeting adjourned till next Saturday night in the same hall, when Lorenz Brentano and the Hon. William Vocke will speak to a large gathering.

in the same hall, when Lorenz Brentano and the Hon. William Vocke will speak to a large gathering.

SEVENTEENTH WARD.

The Seventeenth Ward Hayes and Wheeler Club met last evening in their new and cheerful quarters, corner of Chicago avenue and Sedgwick street. Mr. C. G. Linderberg, Vice-President, occupied the chair, and, despite the bad weather, a fair attendance was present.

Mr. Peterson introduced some resolutions, objecting to the choice of judges of election for the ward at the coming primary elections, on the ground that it had been made without consulting the club, and suggesting the names of John S. Mullins, Robert Knight, and Peter Johnson for judges. The resolutions were adopted and a committee of seven appointed to confer with the Cook County Central Committee and to suggest to them the propriety of appointing the above-named gentlemen as judges.

After some further business of little importance the meeting adjourned.

A few misguided ones of Tilden persuasions met last evening at 89 North Wells street, where they listened to the usual style of Democratic speeches by a man named Gelstein, a youngster named Walker, and a gentleman not unknown to fame—the Hon. J. M. Rountree.

A SAD FAILURE.

Though the whole city had been placarded with announcements that the great German Democratic orator, Mr. Emil Rothe, of Cincinnatt, would answer last evening the speech made by Carl Schurz at McCormick Music Hall two days ago, and though a brass band was blowing as hard as lungs would allow from 6 o'clock p. m. to half-past 8 o'clock, yet North Side Turner-Hall was not more than half full last evening. They say that the weather was the cause of this, and that the hall would have been crowded if the weather clerk had not shown himself to be a good Republican by letting the rain come down in torrents just at the time when the meeting was to convene. But does any one suppose that McCormick Hall would have been loss full than it was last Thursday night had the weather been even worse than it was last night? The fact is, the BMIL ROTHS AT TURNER-HALL.

Thursday night had the weather been even worse than it was last night? The fact is, the Germans were satisfied with what Carl Schurs had told them, and they do not care to hear efforts to answer his unanswerable argument.

At a quarter to 9 o'clock Mr. Conrad Nichoff responded to the impatient clamor of the crowd and called the meeting to order, nominating Mr. Edmund Juessen as Chairman of the meeting. Mr. Emil Rothe arrived at the hall at this point, accompanied by Jerry Crowley and Gen. Lieb. He was greeted with applanse.

MR. JUESSEN, on taking the chair, thanked them for the honor conferred upon him. The few words he had to say came from his heart. That, in spite of the weather, so many persons were present was proof that the Germans were for Tilden and Reform. The Germans tould not be made to believe that the Republican party was able to purify itself, nor would they be chained to any party. He admitted that the Republicans made a grand show and gave Carl Schurz quite an ovation, but it was not in honor of the Republican cause, but the man himself. But this man even could not change the determination of the Germans to vote for Tilden and Reform.

A long list of Vice-Presidents was then read.

A long list of Vice-Presidents was then read.
The Chairman then introduced

ing, for sooner or later the people would have to pay for the expense. He did not come as a strict party man, but merely to acquaint them with the state of affairs as viewed by the other side. He was not there to make a personal attack on Schurz, but to answer his argument calmly. What was said in a morning paper about his rejuctance to meet Carl Schurz in joint discussion was a deliberate falsehood. No one made a proposition to him to meet Schurz. There was too much ot stake in this campaign to misrepresent facts an account of partyism. Mr. Schurz, who now supported Hayes, divided his argument into two parts, Finance and Reform, and he agreed with Schurz that these were vital issues of the campaign. None but demagogues could try to make beople believe that the election of Tilden would insure the payment of the Confederate debt, or that the country was in danger. These were all burgbears. The Constitution of the United States prohibited the payment of such money. Besides, the Democratic party had pledged itself in the St. Louis platform not to go back on the results of the War. It was preposterous to try and make people believe that the War is not yet over, and he hardly believed that many people could be led astray with such issue. He had no time to go claborately in the financial question, as the reform question was the main issue. It was false that the Republican party was for hard money and the Democratic party for inflation. There were soft-money men in either party, and it was foolish to make this a party issue.

A man in the audience interrupted the speaker, and great confusion arose. There were cries all over the hall to put him out, and the police was called in. Mr. Rothe requested them to let the man remain, as he was speaking for such persons. However, the crowd was not satisfied until the man was put out of the hall.

The speaker then went on to say that THE MONTEY QUESTION could not be solved unless the tariff question was solved at the same time. We were suffering as much from the fart time that C had not alluded to the question at all in his speech.

The second and most important question was REFORM.

Both the Republicans and the Democrats were satisfied that this state of affairs could not go on much longer, and that there must be achange for the better or things would go to the devil. Schurz himself admitted this fact. Everything was corrupt from the attic to the cellar. It was now ten years since the War was over, and still we were suffering from its effects, and things were getting worse every day. France had a war four years ago, had more soldiers in the field than we had, and the best part of its country was devastated. In this country neither the Great West nor the North suffered anything from the War, and yet France had recovered and we had not. The cause of this was that the people there did not get humbugged by greedy politicians as we did. Offices there were not sold. All worked together for the honor of the country. Is was a land where the people themselves were honest, and compelled their officials to be honest. The condition of the country will not be bettered until the poople themselves became more honest than they now were, and compelled the officeholders to be honest also. Affairs had become se bad here that such a thing as political honor was entirely unknown. Schurz himself had said time and again that the Republican party was corrupt, and could not reform itself, and no one could say the party had become better since. He then said that Hayes, though a good man, was not able to make the necessary reforms. He would be but a tool in the hands of corrupt politicians. He had never done anything bad, but no one could say that he had ever done anything good. His letter of acceptance was full of fine phrases, but it was the promises of a politician and did not amount to anything. Carl Schurz said that Hayes was a greater reformer than Tilden, but this again was the promise of a politician and his record as a reformer.

CORRESPONDENCE

THE PIRST CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT.

To the Editor of The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—As the time approache represent one of the most important Congressional Districts in the entire Union, the minds of the people are being directed to the necessity of selecting some one who will represent them with 'dignity and ability commensurate to the possion that the district occupies in Congress. Without detracting in any manner from the reputation of the gentlemen whose names have been mentioned in connection with the nomination, I would state that in my opinion have been mentioned in connection with the nomination, I would state that in my opinion no man would represent the district with more distinguished ability than Sidney Smith, Esq. Two years ago, without solicitation on his part, Mr. Smith was put in nomination by the party, and made a spiendid canvass of the district, and on account of the apathy and inactivity of the Republicans he was defeated, and a man elected who during the War would throw up his hat every time a Union soldier would bite the dust, and who, to keep his record consistent, left his seat in Congress, and crossed the hall to congratulate Ben Hill on his defeuse of the damnable atrocities of Andersonville, Libby, and Belle Isle. Undoubtedly at the coming election the Republicans of the First District will elect their nominee to Congress. Is this district, that has been for the past two years diligraced by disloyalty and imbecility, to be for the coming two years afflicted by medicerity through the manipulations of "machine politicians"? There has never been in the history of our country a time that demanded the election of able, loyal, and fearless men to Congress more than the present, and the best interests of not only the Republican party, but the country, demand that personal friendships and preferences shall give way to the selection of the best men. The First District wants no man to represent it whose loyalty to the party can be questioned. The First District wants no man in the National House of Representatives. But the First District wants a representative in Congress like Mr. Smith, aman of brilliant intellect, a ready debater; cool, clear, logical, in his argument: quick to anticipate his opponent's defense, and thus he is prepared to attack his weakest points. Mr. Smith has not sought, nor does he now seek, the nomination. Let the coming Congressional Convention exhibit the good sense to ask Sid Smith to again become our standard-bearer. An Old Republican.

"Honor to whom honor is due."

To the Editor of The Tribune.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—Knowing that The Thisung is an earnest advocate of honesty in political offices, I desire to call the attention of your readers to the fact that Maj. William E. Waite, a gentleman of trust and honor, is a candidate for the office of Recorder of Deeds.

It has already been stated through the columns of The Tribung that the Major deserves the honor and esteem of the public; that as a Revenue Storekeeper he has proved so faithful that "his name should be written in letters of gold." In the midst of all the corruption of the Whisky-Ring he was strictly honest, although offered a large bribe to aid in defrauding the Government, and, because he fearlessly exposed this attempt at bribery, the whisky powers drove him from his position. For nearly two years, instead of amassing a fortune by dishonesty, he was unemployed; in consequence of which he was compelled to suffer the loss of his homestead by foreclosure. This fact becoming known to the lamented Webster, he wrote the Major a letter of commendation, and recalled him to his position.

Mr. Waite was among the foremost to answer to his country's call for volunteers, and helped raise two of the first companies that went from our city. He served bravely and well throughout the War, and was promoted for meritorious services. Gens. McArthur and Ducat take pleasure in praising the Major's army record, and testify that he always had the approbation, love, and respect of his men and superior officers.

Maj. Waite was for a long time confidential clerk for Mr. S. P. Rounds, and Mr. Rounds asserts that implicit trust can be placed in him. In social circles, as a citizen and gentleman, he holds a high position and the good-will of all who know him, and is the presiding officer of a literary and social club. We think him deserving of all the praise given him, and can appl

THE GAS BILL.

To the Editor of The Tribune.

OAKLAND, Sept. U.—An article appeared in Saturday's Times, written, ne doubt, by some (Reform) Democrat, headed "Who Pays for the Gas?" speaking of the gas burnt at the meetings of the Hayes and Wheeler Club at the Oakland hose-house. Our answer is, that we, the Republicans of Oakland, will pay all debts that may be incurred by the said Club, and hereafter I trust that our Democratic friends will not be distressed as to who will pay our bills. For the Democrats know full well that the Republican party always pays its debts, and was never known to vote to repudiate an honest debt, be it ever so small, not even a gas bill. M. O. K.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 9.—A gentleman who has been traveling in North Louisiana will publish in to-morrow morning's Republican a statement in relation to the troubles in that statement in relation to the troubles in that section as they came under his observation. He states that the general tenor of conversation was to the effect that fewer colored and more white Republicans were to be killed or run off. Nigger-killing caused too much talk in the North. At Monroe, he says, the cars were boarded by a band of armed men who were looking for Chief-Justice Ludeling, who was expected on the train, and who was expected on the train, and he had, no doubt, judging by their manner that harm was intended. The manner that harm was intended. The Judge was not, however, aboard. This was a few days after the assassination of Dinkgrave. That evening at about half-past o'clock, the Democrats held a meeting or the public square. Among the speakers was would-be Gov. John McEnery, who was vociferously greeted as the war-horse of Ouachita. He reports McEnery as using

Did you ever see him? He has the most horrible countenance you ever saw. He is a thief and a scoundrel, the embodiment of all corruption and ragcality in this State combined. Just think of such a thief canvassing the State in the company of our noble candidate for Governor.

After some further uncomplimentary remarks couched in the same billingsgate, he added:

I would kill him if I had the power, and it is lucky for him, and probably for me, that I have no such power. But he ought to be killed, and if some one could put a bullet into him (pointing with his right hand to his temple) it would be a blessing to this State.

He often launched forth into a terrible diatribe against the carpet-baggers and "scalawage, stating that, in his opinion, they ought to be killed or runoff, and added:

If it were not for the infamous General Government under which we live, it would soon be done. How long de you think the cowardly scoundrels would remain after receiving their notice to leave? They would know what to expect if they did not obey.

The result of Democratic policy has been to scatter the Republican population of this parish in different directions, and such as he conferred with spoke in a subdued manner, and were evidently frightened.

SOUTH CAROLINA. A GAME THAT TWO CAN PLAY AT.

Special Dispatch to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 9.—Information received here from Charleston, South Carolina, places a different coloring upon the recent riot there. The private dispatches say the riot was precipitated by Democrats demanding half the time at a Republican meeting, as they have been successfully doing in other portions of the State. To this unreasonable demand the Republicans refused to acquiesce, when they were fired upon by a White-Line mob. The Republicans, being largely in the majority, determined to stand their ground and play awhile at the White-Line game. This resulted in killing several Democrats. The order of things is for the first time reversed in the Charleston difficulty. Hitherto in the South forty or fifty negroes always bit the dust, the whites escaping without injury.

St. Paul., Minn., Sept. 9.—The chase for the Northfield bank-robbers is in a region distant from telegraph lines, so that the latest advice are of this morning, when they were reported surrounded in a marshy woods near German Lake, in Elysian, southeast town of LeSueur County. by a comrade.

The country in every direction around them is fully informed of their movements, and, as fast as horses and firearms can be procured, different villages are sending out parties to join the chase. A large party from Northfield started this afternoon. Chief of Police King, of this city, leads a strong party, which is believed to be near the wood where the robbers are said to be surrounded. Other parties are coming in from the south and west, covering the woods, fields, and roads as they advance. Four of the robbers, as mentioned before, purchased horses and outfits in Red Wing. Two others purchased horses, saddles, and bowle-knives in St. Paul. The remaining two outfitted at St. Peter.

The smaller one killed at Northfield has been recognized as one of the two who outfitted here; also as having visited a gambling-saloon here last Tuesday night, where he was recognized as having been in this city seven or eight years ago, when he was known among gamblers as an adroit trickste at cards, and an occasional shover of the queer The larger one bears a bullet-scar under the left arm, by which parties residing at Minneapoli and Cannon Falls expected to identify Bi Yates, formerly of Minneapolis, a desperate rough, latterly supposed to be in Texas. A person calling himself L. M. Hazen, a detective, hailing from Cincinnati, passed through here to-day, going to Northfield to see the bodies of the two killed robbers. He says that for six weeks he has been following the trails of the gang who robbed the express cars of the United States and Adams Companies on the Kansas Pacific Road, 14 miles east of Sedalia, in July last. He says he has no doubt those Northfield bank robbers are the same men, or of the same gang, and that the names of seven of them are Frank and Jesse. same men, or of the same gang, and that the names of seven of them are Frank and Jesse James, Col. Mr. Hazen is very positive, and is probably correct in asserting this to be the notorious James and Younger band of Southwest Missouri; but the direction of their flight and places where they have stopped during their flight indicates some knowledge of residents here, though no familiarity whatever with the roads.

Through the sections where they were yesterday and to-day there has long been an established regular route of travel, with convenient stopping-places for horse-thieves operating in this State and Iowa, and the place where they stopped and slept for some hours night before last was named here day before yesterday as the place where they would go.

DUBUQUE, Ia., Sept. 9.—Joseph Holmes, alias Jo Tobin, alias F. H. Giddings, and a dozen other names, who during the past 10 years has by forgery swindled banks at Woodstock, Freeport, and other places in Illinois, and Fairfield, Waterloo, and other places in Iowa, out of an aggregate so far as known of over $50,000, and has been pursued for months for a forgery upon a Waterloo bank last July, by Detective Shattuck, of this city, has been at last traced to his lair, and was to-day arrested near Sycamore, Ill. The fellow has one wife at Waterloo, another at Tracer, Iowa, and owns to a third somewhere else. Officers from Iowa, Minnesota, Missourt, and various points in Illinois have warrants for his arrest, and are on the scent to obtain the numerous rewards offered for his conviction. He is one of the most skillful and dangerous forgers in the West.

It seems that Raphael, who kept a second-hand and old clothes store on South Washington street, was in the habit of purchasing and secreting stolen property that these thieves would bring him. A large amount of stolen goods which have been identified were found at his place. Some of the thieves have been squealing, and it is anticipated that enough evidence will be obtained to send Raphael up for life. He was head and front of the gang, and deserves to be punished to the full extent of the law.

Special Dispatch to The Tribuna.

Krokuk, Ia., Sept. 9.—As Courad Mist. Krokuk, Ia., Sept. 9.—As Conrad Mister, a market-gardener, was on his way to the city with a load of vegetables at an early hour this morning he was surrounded by a gang of four colored footpads who demanded his money. Upon his refusal to surrender, one of them fired upon him, the hall passing through his left ear. The gang had just left a neighboring house, which they threatened to burn if the occupant refused to hand over his money. The highwaymen were tracked to this city, but as yet have not bean captured.

A FEMALE INCENDIARY.

Special Disposes to the Tribuns.

Shavorth, Ont., Sept. 8.—Mrs. Griffith, charged with starting the late disastrous conflagration in Seaforth, which destroyed so much property, was before the Police Magistrate to-day. The gridgene agrees he day. The evidence against her was very conclusive. There were over 400 people in court, and the excitement ran high. Her motive was the same as that of Blanchett, at St. Hyacinthe, namely: to obtain insurance on property insured for an amount greatly in excess of its value.

BURGLARY. Special Dispatch to The Tribune.
MENDOTA, Ill., Sept. 9.—The residen Luke Goodwin was robbed last night and considerable property stolen, consisting of jew-elry, clotning, and his Knight Templar suit. Mrs. Goodwin perceived one of the burglars in her room, but ere her liege lord could be aroused to the emergency of the occasion the robbers decamped with their booty, and were lost sight of.

AN IMPORTANT CAPTURE. San Francisco, Sept. 9.—A Los Angeles dispatch says Klingensmith, the Mormon witness of the Mountain Meadow massacre, was captured on the Mohave Desert, and brought to that city.

BROWN---SMITH.

Commonly Known as Con Mahoney, the Contractor.

His Negotiations with the Officers the Millington & Western. Extracts from the Record of the Council Proceedings. It is told of a certain man, once an Alderman now a self-convicted whisky-thief and a fugitive in the happy hunting grounds of escaped whisky-thieves, that a gentleman represented by "A" once applied to him for assistance in passing an ordinance through the City Council, and a conversation like the following took Alderman-What did he say to the man up in the tree?

A.—Who up in the tree! Where! When! Ald .- What did the Lord say when He en tered Jerusalem and saw that man up in the sycamore tree!

The other party to the conversation thoughtfully says: "Why, He said, 'Zaccheus, come "And so say I unto you," responds the Alderman. "Come down with the stamps and you have my help. Otherwise you have not." you have my help. Otherwise you have not."

The man may or may not come down with the stamps; if he does, and to an amount large enough, he has the help of the worthy Alderman and the passage of the measure is assured. But not all transactions, barters of votes, etc., are carried out in that open way. The Council Ring is an exceedingly shy one, and nothing has been openly proven against its members. That, however, a ring did and does exist, is accepted as the truth by the persons best informed in municipal matters. The old Council—the one which died last April—was one of an exceedingly bad reputation. The necessity of having some one upon whom to heap all the offium and load off all the charges of corrupt practices was load off all the charges of corrupt practices was evinced by the treatment of Ald. Hildreth. And yet there were men in that body worse than the same Hildreth. Although their names were not used as synonyms of dishonesty as was that of yet there were men in that body worse than the same Hildreth. Although their names were not used as synonyms of dishonesty as was that of J. Harry, their work was as great and their cunning far greater. Else how could Aldermen, known to have no property and having no visible means of support, live and support families? It was done; and, to judge from the support given, the Alderman business was very good indeed. The writer has in mind a gentleman who is willing to make affidavit that an ex-Alderman—Tom Cannon—told him that the position as a member of the City Council was worth $8,000 a year and no questions asked.

But if a person had gone around to the different wards, last spring, and heard the anxious candidates make the most solemn promises of reform and the greatest protestations of honesty, that person would scarcely believe that in several instances the words were lies and the promises but idle talk.

A few facts and rumors have leaked out of late in the presence of a TRIBUNE reporter, who took it upon himself to inquire into the case. The result of his investigations, and the plain statement of facts, are given for what they are worth, and can be accepted or rejected according to the private opinion of the reader. The rumors were that bribery had been used or attempted in connection with the passage of an ordinance allowing the CHICAGO & MILLINGTON RAHLEGAD to enter the city. Nothing more was known than that, and the reporter began has errand by buttonholing a South Side Alderman, a new one. The worthy Alderman had heard a great deal about the rumored dishonesty, but refused to say what he had heard, and referred the man of news to another person who had heard the same story, and more in detail. The reporter found that man, and heard the story. There was no bribery in it, only an attempt, or a little blackmail. Not willing to publish anything indirectly obtained, the reporter took the name of the party from whom the bribe was demanded, and thister went. The gentleman last called upon is the agent of the

If the 85,000 was not given, we could not get the ordinance."

"What name did this man give?" asked the reporter.

"He said that his name was "SHTH."

"I have heard the description of the man," said the reporter. "He was a large man, full red beard, blue eyes, dark clothes, very good-looking withal, and evidently Irish by nationality."

"Yes, that's right," said Mr. P. "Well, we did not give him the money, although we knew that we could not get the ordinance passed without it. We determined to wait till the Council changed."

"The go-between, of course, was not fool enough to say what Aldermen he represented?" asked the reporter.

"O, no, he would not say that, although he acknowledged the existence of a ring. We had a call about six weeks ago from the same man. This time he called himself Brown. He asked for $800 to pass the ordinance. We told him that the present Council was too honest to deal unfairly with us, and we refused to give him any money. Brown said that the ring was not large enough to defeat our ordinance, but if time was of any advantage to us we would do well to pay up; for the combination could, if it chose, delay matters by referring, postponing, laying over, and publishing, etc., about 10 weeks. We refused still, and went to some of the honest aldermen to help us. They did eo, and, although the expected delay was carried out, we have our ordinance."

"Are you sure that Brown and Smith are one and the same person?"

"Just as positive as can be, and Mr. Eddy has found out where Brown-Smith lives, and that their name is

"ON MAHONEY."

"Oh, yes," put in the reporter, when he compared Con with the description of Brown-Smith, the is a brother-in-law of Hildreth, the crooked."

"The same man," said Mr. Paul.

"Did Mahoney, as we will now call him, any

"Oh, no, this Mahoney appears to be too old a hand at the business to be caught with chaff, but it appears to me that the Council proceed-ings would show who tried to delay us, as it was predicted."

"How many tried to delay you?"
"There were eight negative votes almost every time that our ordinance was up before the House for passage."
"One hundred dollars apiece," suggested The Tribuns man.
"It looks like that, does it not?"

"It looks like that, does it not?"
The reporter then betook himself to
THE COUNCIL RECORD
and looked over the votes on the Millington Railway. There has been much dilly-dailying about it, as the extracts from the records will show.

July 31 the ordinance . came up for the first and Alleys of the West Division. It was laid time in the new reform Council, its passage being recommended by the Committee on Streets and Alleys of the West Division. It was laid over and ordered published on motion of Ald. Lawler and Sweeney.

Aug. 16 the ordinance was again taken up and Ald. Lawler moved that it be referred to the Law Department for examination. Carled, and another week's delay provided for.

Aug. 21, in the evening, the ordinance was called up, with the amendments proposed by the Law Department (non-essential recommendations). Ald. Thompson moved that the ordinance be amended, when Ald. Sweeney moved that the subject be postponed for two weeks. Ald. Raleigh moved to lay Sweeney's motion on the table. The motion was carried, Ald. Cullerton, Kerber, Lawler, White, Rvan, Baumgarten, Niesen, Lengacher, Sweeney, and Boser voting in the negative.

The question then arose on the motion to amend the ordinance, and Ald. Cullerton, Kerber, O'Brien, Lawler, White, Baumgarten, and Boser voted in the negative.

The final question on the passage of the ordinance was then put, and Ald. Cullerton, Kerber, O'Brien, Lawler, Baumgarten, Sweeney, and Boser.

It will be seen that the majority of those voting against the ordinance are old Aldermen; that is, they have had experience in ways that are dark and tricks not always vain, and that they are the ones against whose re-election such cries were made. Among the number will be seen the names of some new members of the Council against whom not even a suspicion habeen raised, and of whose dishonesty it would be very hard to convince the public. There are also some Aldermen who have already, by their one-sided and persistent efforts in certain directions, raised suspicion sgainst themselves. It is not the intention of this article to designate the above-mentioned men as the dishonest ones of the Council, but the simple recorded facts are given.

Arew words about con Mahoner might be well inserted here. Con is a contractor, but spends most of his time hunging on the skirts of Aldermen and bummer politicians tractor, but spends most of his time hanging on the skirts of Aldermen and bummer politicians at the City-Hall. No one knows any particular evil of him, except that he was once charged with being the "go-between" for the old Council Ring and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. An investigation was asked, and, though several meetings were held, to all of which the officials of that road were invited, none of the nappearing, Con escaped.

It has often been wondered, especially by Corporation Counsel Anthony, why apparently simple matters before the Council should be referred, postponed, laid over, and published, etc. Perhaps the solution may now be comparatively easy. It might be practicable and surely would be beneficial to the city to have suspicious characters rooted out of the City Council. A little of the Grand Jury inquisition upon Con Mahoney might reveal the name of those in the Council combination. If an investigation should result in the verdict that there was no combination, the comreveal the name of those in the Council combi-nation. If an investigation should result in the verdict that there was no combination, the com-munity might be benefitted by the removal, for safe keeping, of the man who makes it his busi-ness to arrange the "grabe" for the City Fathers or to obtain money under false pre-tenses from various corporations and persons who desire favors or justice from the city.

Special Dispatch to The Tribuns.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The eighth game of the Naw York, Sept. 9.—The eighth game of the series between the Chicago White Stockings and Mutuals was played here to-day in the presence of a small audience. The game was devoid of any special interest, for the long lead the visiters took in the first three innings virtually settled the result. The Mutuals were without the services of Holdsworth and Hicks, and their places were very acceptably filled by two young ama-teur players. The Chicagos played a good field-ing game, while their batting was terrific, mak-ing no less than 21 total base hits. Anson and McVey both made clean home runs. Mr. Du-

Boston, Sept. 2.—The game between the Boston and Louisville Clubs to have been played here to-day was postponed until Monday on account of rain. When the Boston and St. Louis Clubs meet here next week it will be a battle of the "Brads."

The seven games played last week have made no perceptible change in the positions of the clubs, inasmuch as the favorites have won every time. The Chicagos have now a lead in games played as well as won, being the only organizaplayed as well as won, being the only organization that has been favored with enough fair weather to carry out all their engagements. They have 12 games more to play, and a clear leeway of three games to lose and yet win the pennant. The present week will virtually decide the possession of that useful and valuable rag. The situation may be epitomized by saying that, if Chicago wins 9 out of 12, Harttord must win 19 straight to tie; or, if the Whites should win 7 out of 12, then St. Louis must win 14 straight to to tie. The table showing the Philadelphia.

Beside the above League championship games, the Chicago and St. Louis Clubs are booked to play on the Union Grounds (Brooklyn) to-mornow one of a series of games for the championship of the West. It is herewith suggested that that part of the series played in the East will prove a financial mistake. If the game is played to-morrow, nobody who knows the ropes would give $20 for either club's share of the receipts.

would give $30 for either club's share of the reeeipts.

At the conclusion of the Eastern trip, the clubs will play their way home, arriving here in time to meet the first Eastern organization Friday, Sept. 22, and Saturday, Sept. 23. The programme heretofore adopted is to this effect, but it is quite probable to be revised, and no certainty exists as yet as to any games beyond those of this week.

It is stated on the authority of Chapman, of the Louisvilles, that Ryan, Gernardt, Devlin, Snyder, Hague, Fulmer, and Somerville have signed for next year with the Louisvilles. Official notifications have been received of only three of these names. What object have the management in withholding the others if contracts have been made?

A dispatch in yesterday's TRIBUNE gave the first intelligible account of the departure of Bond from the Hartford Club, though it has been for some time known that a storm was srewing that must burst on either him or Ferguson. Bond's open statement that Ferguson was throwing games could not pass unnoticed, and when the former refused to play in a nine with Ferguson, nothing was left for Mr. Bulkeby but to send him away. The following dispatch from The TRIBUNE'S correspondent in New Haven, Conn., settles about his future for 1877:

PASTIMES Fourth Victory of the White Stockings East. They Administer a Terrible Drubbing to the Mutuals.

days, has signed to play in 1877 with the St. Louis days, has signed to play in 1877 with the St. Louis has been here in consultation with Townny, and that the latter has said that he was going West next year; that the East was no place to play ball, etc. Bond will play out this season with the New Havens, and will play out this season with the New Havens, and will play out this season with the New Havens, and will play out this season with the New Havens, and will play out this season with the New Havens, and will play out the chaotic condition of our association nobody was prepared to make a contract with him.

Notz.—If this engagement has really been made, it will be an excellent thing in several ways. It will provide the St. Louis with a first-class pitcher, which they will greatly need it Bradley leaves them, as he now seems likely to do; it will allow of the peaceful release of Nichols, who, though he signed a contract with the St. Louis, has been uneasy about it, and desirous of a release ever since. This again will help the New Havens, if Nichols stays with them, as he is likely to do. Lastly, the departure of Bond will allow that excellent player and courteous gentleman, Cummings, a show for himself. He has been repressed all the season, and not allowed to play in more than two games up to the time of Bond's leaving. He can now have an excellent opportunity to make himself solid for next year. That so strong a nine as the Louisyilles should earn only one run off his delivery in two games hast week shows that he is in as good form as ever.

THE ATHLETICS.

Special Correspondence of The Tribens.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 7.—In some correspondence from here a few weeks ago I suggested that it was impossible to keep the Athletic Club going another year, and 4 am now more than ever convinced that it must go under right away. It has been the aim of the management for some time to last along until the eight games now in progress could be finished, in the hope that people would turn out and support their home nine; but this hope has been rudely dispelled. The Onicagos opened the scrice, and plenty of advertising was done, but the crowds did not come; and, though I do not know what the till contained, yet I have no idea that the two games with the coming champions gave the Athletics more than $800, and this, I am informed, was divided among the players as soon as they left the field. Of course it was only a sop, especially to those to whom the management owes, $600, $800, and like sums. The question arises, What will be the show from the other sir games if the best two turn out like this? As to a Western trip, the management deem it well nigh impossible, and their only hope is in finding some one who will guarantee the expenses. It will cost about $1,200 to take the men around and play two games in each Western city, and it is very doubtful whether any gentleman will advance that sum, or such part of it as may be needed. The outlook for next year is rather discouraging, and there is little doubt that the present organization will go into bankruptcy,—in fact, it can do nothing eise. It would be manifestly unfair for the management to get together a club, composed of new men, for next year and make them work away to pay this year's debts. They have tried that quite often enough. To be sure, if they throw up the present organization, they lose their franchise in the League, but a new and lively club, with good men at its head, would have no trouble in getting in. After the Centennial has been ended the people here will support ball liberally enough.

REVIEW OF THE ATRLETIC-HARTFORD SERIES. The championship series of ten games between the Hartford Club and the Athletics, of Philadelphia, was finished some time ago, but various urgent reasons have combined to put off the making-up of their averages until now. They are, however, of value to complete the record which has, from time to time, been published in these columns, and from which the efficiency of each pitcher may be accurately computed as against that of any other player in the position. The record of games played by the Athletics and Hartfords, with the dates and scores, is as you please, Brooklyn has the "bosses" in these two positions.

It would be well to suggest to the Pittsburg people to engage a newspaper man who has some knowledge of the game at the same time they are getting players. The man who thinks Mathews and Hicks the best players in their positions in the League will never do.

Dayton, O., talks of a professional club for 77.

The Buckeyes, of Columbus, want Bob Clack, of the Cincinnatis, to play first-base for them next year. Pearson, of the Cincinnatis, has had an offer from the Maple Leaf Club of Canada to play with them next season.

The Hartford Times says: "It is a well established fact that the Bostons have improved very much in their playing lately, and it is by no means certain that they will not yet rob the Dark Blues of third place." A tournament is to be held in Milwaukee all this week under the auspices of the West End Association. Premiums to the amount of $400 are offered, and several Minnesota clubs are expected to participate, as well as leading consin clubs.

The Cincinnati Enquirer suggests a ball tournament in its city after the close of the League season. It says: "If the Cincinnati Reds, the Louisvilles, the Columbus Buckeyes, the Indianapolis Club, the St. Louis Red Sox, and the Jackson (Mich.) Mutuals could meet in such a tournament there would be some rare sport."

The New York Clipper has the following suggestive paragraph concerning the Eastern trip:
"The St. Louis defeats [by amateurs] are not creditable to that club, for there can be but little doubt of their ability to have avoided such results, especially in their Syracuse game. The Chicago team has been raking in the half dollars, en route to the East, in a way which has made Al Spalding smile benignly. No wonder he pitched so well. There is nothing like success for drawing a crowd."

The Rochester Union, commenting on the game between the Chicagos and the Rochester Club, says: "Last year one of the Chicago papers suggested that there was an element in their club which it would be no loss to society to remove by homicide, but the managers appear to have dispensed with that class of talent this year, for the men all bear themselves like gentlemen and were commendably free from this year, for the men all bear themselves like gentlemen and were commendably free from chaffing. Their famous second baseman, Barnes, whose reputation as a general player, and especially at the bat is A 1, is not a large man, as might be expected by one who had heard of his terrific batting powers. He is not above medium height, and is rather wiry than stout, but when he makes a strike, he seems to brace every nerve for the effort, and, gathering himself, springs at it with a vengeance." There is something deliciously humorous in the implied idea that Barnes must be a physical giant because he has a big reputation. It is fair to wonder what they thought of Anson.

The New York Sportsman ventures the fol-lowing opinion: "The Bostons would make a The New York Sportsman ventures the following opinion: "The Bostons would make a profitable thing of it by retaining the whole present playing nine, engaging an experienced pitcher (Nichols, if possible), and they may then enter on next year's campaign with an amount of confidence which, added to the well-known training which a Boston-Club player must undergo, should carry them to the front, especially as the present Chicagos have been pretty well broken up, though the nucleus—Spalding, McVey, and Barnes—will still remain. However, that's Harry Wright's business, not ours." Not to be impertinent, The Tribuns would ask where the rest of the Chicago team—beside Spalding, McVey, and Barnes—are going for next year? Out here we had not heard of the engagement of Peters, Glenn, Hines, Addy, White, or Andrus. If they should be reengaged would the Sportsman conclude that the Chicago nine had been broken up?

YACHTING. A SCARED LOT OF TACHTSMEN. The gentlemen composing the Chicago Yacht Club have for several weeks been praying for a stiff breeze and a heavy, sea. They have boasted that the combination of the elements would result in the finest yacht race ever known off the pocket. The Frolic's people have contended that she was worthless unless the wind blew well and the sea was high, and the rest of our fresh-water sailors have demanded a gale to bring out the sailing points of their craft. None of them have been satisfied with light winds, and they have strutted around the piers and pished at light breezes and whistled for half a gale with a pertinacity that made their new uniforms shine even more re-splendently in the eyes of land-lubbers, and spiendently in the eyes of land-lubbers, and gave outsiders the impression that they had, in some way or another, been ermitted to go out in a sail-boat. The newspapers have been flooded with longwinded letters, tending to a demonstration that there are yachts and sailors in the harbor, and blue hats and brass buttons have been displayed ad lib. to back up the assertion that we are a maritime city. There have been annual meetinks culminating in the bursting of unlimited champague at South Chicago, and here and there a scrub-race in a safe breeze has come off

THE TURE.

SPRINGPIELD, MASS.

SPRINGPIELD, MASS., Sept. 9.—The rain yesterday at Hampden Park got its work in well. It not only prevented the races but prevented the Association from coming out ahead financially. There was this double compensation, however: The first steeple chase in New England took place to-day, and the crowd were highly amused, all the horses engaged—five—bolting the course at some point or other. The result was: Derby first, Stanford second. result was: Derby first, Stanford second, Weasel third, Lorena and Bill Munday not placed. Time—5:25. placed. Time—5:25.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 9.—The State Fair closed to-day, only about 6,000 visitors being in attendance. The day was given to trials of speed upon a track unusually heavy. The trot for 4-year-olds was won by W. M. Yeasal's Fashion, of Springfield, in two straight heats. Time, 3:02, 3:00.

TURP NOTES.

The Watseka Driving Park Association will hold its third annual meeting Oct. 10 and three succeeding days. They will offer $2,600 in 11 premiums.

Mr. Grove Rossman, Aucram, N. Y., has sold to Mr. John Roosevelt, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., a chestnut gelding, 4 years old, by Burger, for $3,500. This gelding showed a mile trot over the Poughkeepsie track in 2:27%. Gen. W. T. Withers, Fairlawn Stock Farm, Lexington, Ky., has sold to Mr. C. P. Jones, Des Moines, Ia., the chestnut horse Alamo, by Almont, dam Annie Lloyd, by Alexander's Ab-dallah, granddam by Brown's Bellfounder, for $5,000.

Charley Green's stable of trotters has returned home to Babylon, L. I. Lucille Golddust is lame, Lula is out of condition, Prospero is turned out, Breeze and Rose are amiss, Proctor has changed hands, and May Queen is said to be so bad that she cannot trot in 4 minutes. The match race at Dexter Park yesterday between Theo. Curtis' bl. g. Jack Short to wagon and Mr. Bouner's s. g. Blind Billy to harness, was won by the latter in three straight heats. Time, 2:45, 2:444, 2:434. The same horses are matched for $200 p. p., both to harness, to trof at Dexter Park to-morrow afternoon.

The bay gelding St. Julien, bought some months ago in New York by Orrin Hickox for $20,000, and taken to California for the purpose of beating Dan Voorhies, did his work very neatly last week. He made 2:25¼ in the second heat. The match was said to have been for $10,000; but ever since the last $30,000 purse there has been doubt about those big purses in California. California.

The proposed international trotting race between Russian and American stallions, for which a purse of $10,000 in gold is offered by Col. S. D. Bruce, will not take place this year. Mr. Moder, the acting representative of the Russian owners, declares that the time originally named (October) is too short. He, however, suggests that American owners of fast trotting stock send representatives to the Paris Exposition of 1878, where there will be plenty of Orloff horses to match and trot against them. Col. Bruce proposes that the offer to trot American stallions against Russian stallions this year stand good for 1877, so as to give ample time to select, ship, and train the latter, if the match is accepted.

THE PRIZE RING.

THE PRIZE RING.

ROOAN, ALLEN, DWYER, AND GOSS.

The Cincinnati papers publish a card from Ben Hogan, inviting Tom Allen to "fight for fun." Ben Hogan is a Dutchman from Pittsburg, a fair wrestler, a good boxer, but utterly without courage. About two years ago he challenged Allen, and the battle-ground was fixed at a point 10 miles from St. Louis on the Missierium. The steamer Continental was chartered. at a point 10 miles from St. Louis on the Mississippi. The steamer Continental was chartered for the fight, and lay at the St. Louis levee, head up stream. In pulling out and turning around she was blown ashore on the Illinois side, and all on board arrested. The stakeholder then fixed the ground within 100 miles of Omaha, and the fight came off three miles from Pacific City, mear the western border of Omaha. Sherman Thurston, leader of the Omaha roughs, picked np Hogan, and fixed it for him to win. The third round found Hogan hadly whipped, when a bruiser known as the "Chicago Kid" cut the ropes, and the gang, invading the ring, put their pistols to Allen's head, and threatened to kill him if he did not give up the fight. On the train running back to Omaha, the referee was compelled on threats of immediate death to give the fight to Hogan, and at Omaha, Jim Egan, the stakeholder, was locked up until he handed over the stakes. Hogan got a doctor to certify that he (Hogan) had been struck "below the belt," and the Doctor subsequently published a card in the Omaha papers that Hogan agreed to give him $100 for the lie, and had swindled him out of the money. The fight was for $1,000 a side, of which Hogan got $100, Sherman Thurston and his gang securing the balance. It was the rankest robbery ever known, and Allen struggled for a long time to find Hogan. Hogan was to take a benefit in St. Louis, a week after the fight, and it was found necessary to agrest him to keep Allen from pounding him on the stage. Hogan ran away from St. Louis, and went to Pittsburg. Announcing himself Champion of the World, he advertised a benefit, and Allen took the train for Pittsburg, intending to mount the stage and whip Hogan among his admirers. Hogan heard of his coming, and refused to appear at his own benefit.

Allen has betrayed a facility for retiring from the ring equaled to an actress' farewell engagement. As for a fighter, he is probably the best man that ever stepped into the 24-foot circle. For science and game comblined, his equal does not exist, but for the last three years he has been systematically robbed, simply because he is unpopular among the roughs. Jack Dwyer, who is looked upon as the counting man, challenged Allen Thursday, and Allen refused, as he had determined to retire, falling to see any chance of securing fair play. But Allen's retirement is a great deal like a fellow swearing of

PEDESTRIANISM. TYNDALE VS. M'NURNEY.

The 200-yard spin at Dexter Park yesterday betwen P. McNurney, of the Stock-Yards, and J. Tysdale, of Canada (the former to receive 10 yards), was won by the Chicagoan in 2346 seconds. The muddy condition of the track was considerable disadvantage to the Canadian, and, as he claims, lost him the race. McNurney, winner of yesterday's foot-race at Dexter Park, is matched to run 200 yards while McNurney, winner of yesterday's foot-race at Dexter Park, is matched to run 200 yards while one Moulton runs 210, at the same place, Tuesday afternoon next, for $200.

THE WOMAN QUESTION.

A document has been received at this office in which a certain Miss Ella Hudson, of St. Louis, Mo., challenges Mrs. Mary Marshall to walk 175 miles for $400. At one time the woman-walking business degenerated into a scandalous fraud in this city, and even now there is no general wish to see it revived. It is, therefore, suggested to the women named that they pursue some other avocation than pedestrianism for a living.

ANOTHER CHANCE FOR O'LEARY.

The following is clipped from the Sporting Life of Aug. 23: "W. Howse, of the city, begs to inform O'Leary (the American champion), Vaughan, and ether long-distance pedestrians, that he is open to make a match to walk anybody in the world fifty miles or upward. If this challenge is not accepted within three weeks, Howse's backers are anxious for him to go to America to walk for the championship of the world, and they will give or take expenses to walk in England or America. An answer and a deposit to the Sporting Life will insure a match." So that it is pretty certain that O'Leary will be afforded a chance to test the powers of at least two of our English pedestrian cousins.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Highland Pienie.

Highland Pienic.

Notable among interesting social gatherings may be mentioned the surprise picnie given Saturday by a number of Highlanders and their friends, in honor of John Mackay, Esq., Chief of the Highland Association of Illinois.

The party, accompanied by pipers and clan representatives in the "garb of old Gaul," assembled at the Exposition Building, where conveyances were in readiness to carry them to Mr. Mackay's pleasant villa at Washington Heights. With pibroch sounding loud and clear the start was made, amid loud huxas for the pipes and tartans. Arriving at their destination, the clans alighted, and to the stirring strains of "The Cameron Men" marched up the avenue of Achmoonie and took everything by storm.

After a hearty greeting and genuine Highland welcome from Mr. and Mrs. Mackay, an abundant supply of the good things of this life soon covered an improvised table on the lawn, and was served up in good style by the young ladies of the company. Afterwards croquet, quoits, dancing, etc., were the order of the day. "The mirth and fun grew fast and furious," and after a delightful time the shades of evening warned the party to "Deoch a'n Dhoris," and homewards.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. James McGregor. Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Martin, Miss Martin, and Miss Flora McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Margay, Mr. and Miss Nicol, Miss McDougall, Miss McGlashan, Mr. Jameson, Mrs. Van Sant, Miss Van Sant, Mr. Beebe, Miss Scott, Mr. V. Orr, Mr. H. Orr, and Miss S. Orr, Mr. McLain.

LOWENTHAL—RUHNREITER.

The marriage of Mr. Eduund Loewenthal, of the firm of Loewenthal, Kaufman & Co., and Theresa Kuhnreiter, daughter of S. Kuhnreiter, real-estate dealer of this city, took place last Sunday at the bride's house, No. 180 Huron street. The bride's dress was a peal-colored silk, with ornaments of flowers and orange-blossoms. There were present Miss Emma Kuhnreiter, sister of the bride, dressed in black silk; Miss Nancy Gundersheimer, of Baltimore, in grenadine; Mr. and Mrs. Belizoner, of Baltimore, in James Hurished and Mary M. Piatt, of this city. The families of the bride and groom were largely represented. The bridal presents were beautiful. The bridal party left, immediately after partaking of a wedding breakfast, for Clinton, I.a. Monday, the parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Johnson, 836 North Clark street, gave a reception in honor of their son and daughter. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Martin C. Ettinger, Auditor of the Chicago & Iowa Railroad, Mr. and Mrs. Serget. Hathaway, of the Police Department, Charles Moses and lady, Mrs. Gillett, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hoyne, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Dickinson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Watkins, Miss Emma F. Platt, Miss Steele, Miss Phillips, Miss N. Ettinger, Mr. Greene, Mr. Lathop, Mr. Hallock, and Mrs. and Miss Houghton, of New Jersey, cousins of the bride.

WESTERN AVENUE.

The Sewer to Be Bulls.

The property-owners along Western avenue held a meeting last evening to take some action looking to the procuring of their much-wanted sewer. They assembled in Campbell Hall, corner Van Buren street and Campbell avenue. E. H. Jeffers occupied the chair, and George W. Reed acted as Secretary. Ex-Ald. Campbell, from the Special Committee to confer with the Board of Public Works, and also with the Comptrollar reported that the Board of Public Works.

from the Special Committee to confer with the Board of Public Works, and also with the Comptroller, reported that the Board of Public Works had agreed to issue bonds for one year, payable without interest, for the cost of the sewer. There will be no certificates issued, but the money will be furnished by private citizens, the Board of Public Works merely issuing vouchers for the work. The sum needed is $13,000, which will probably be all forthcoming this week through subscriptions. Work will be commenced as soon as the money is ready. The parties interested are determined to have the work done, and they think that they will have a full subscription list by Wednesday. The Committee were made an Executive Committee with full power to act. The meeting then adjourned till Thursday evening next at 8 o'clock at the same place.

During the morning a delegation of Thirteenth Ward property-owners who desire that the Western-avenue sewer shall be built immediately, called upon the Board of Public Works to hear the correct figures in regard to the cost of the improvement, and to see what arrangement could be made so that the money would be forthcoming. It was found that to build the sewer from Harrison street to Fourteenth would require about $13,000. This amount the citizens will raise by private subscription, S. H. Rawson advancing $5,000. They will wait till the city is perfectly able to pay, which will be made for the capital advanced, and no interest will be asked. The arrangement is satisfactory to all parties, and the work will be commenced as soon as practicable.

THE EXPOSITION

Prominent Features of the Display This Year.

A Look at the Dry Goods Departments
---Safes and Locks.

Gloomy weather continued yesterday and prevented a large attendance at the Exposition. It was just as well, however, to have the rain come down at that time, since the show has as yet scarcely arrived at a state of completion. Durthe whole of the past week there has been a great tumult of preparations throughout the building. The saw and hammer of the carpenter have made themselves audible with extreme frequency, while cart-loads and wagon-loads of goods have been deposited on the asphalt pavement outside, and thence dragged into their proper positions and arranged for exhibition by the skillful hands of numberless attendants, and exhibitors have certainly shown a sufficiency of zeal which might have been more commendable if exercised less recently. However, all is at last finished, or nearly so, and to-day there is little remaining to be done by the exhibitors except to stand behind their wares and answer anywhere from one to 5,000 questions an hour daily during the next four weeks.

Yesterday was damp and unpleasant out of doors, yet within the Exposition Building there was contrast enough to the outside scene in the gay colors, the changing crowd, and all the novel and interesting objects to be seen. Enough visitors were present all day to give a lively appearance to all the long aisless and galleries. The younger portion of the crowd enjoyed themselves immensely and londly; and the older ones, if more soher in their demeanor, still showed by their actions the real pleasure which they took in the surroundings. Even the austere officials sitting on their thrones at the main entrance deigned to look inside occasionally. These lofty individuals are every one of them cynics. The grim mille with which they greet each new-conner, and the condescending manner in which they nod their headis and wave their hands as the visitor passes in, is as much as to say "(g in j poor, weak mortal, and enjoy yourself. NAMKLESS CLUB.

At a meeting held at the Sherman House Club-room Friday evening by the former members of the Nameless, that Club was reorganized for the coming season, and, judging from the large number of well-known West Side gentlemen present, the prospects for the success of this Club for this season are very flattering. Mr. C. D. Brown was elected President; Mr. A. G. Moore, Vice-President; Mr. E. G. Calburn, Secretary; and Mr. F. B. Wyckoff, Treasurer. The officers, believing that the success of the Nameless is due to the parties being strictly informal, have adopted the same plan for this season, and the parties will be the same as those given by this Club for the past two seasons. The membership will be limited to 50, and the parties will be held at Martine's. Music will be furnished by W. W. Pounds.

Besides these, the principal railroads centering here use these safes, also many of the leading business houses, and it is said they have made over 100,000 safes and vaults during the 20 years they have been in existence.

Indeed, it seems that wherever in the United States absolute perfection is desired in safes, vaults, and locks, the services of Diebold & Norris are sure to be in demand. They are above and beyond rivalry in their peculiar and eminently important business.

THE MISSOURI PACIFIC.

St. Louis, Sept. 9.—The announcement that Commodore Garrison, of New York, would take Missouri Pacific Rillroad, and St. Louis, Sept. 9.—The announcement that Commodore Garrison, of New York, would take possession of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, and assume its management personally, has given such satisfaction here that a number of prominent citizens screnaded him to-night at the Lindell Hotel. Mr. Garrison stated that, under the new organization, an act of incorporation for which has already been applied for, the Missouri Pacific will be run entirely separate from the Atlantic & Pacific; that each road will have a distinct Board of Directors, and that the Missouri Pacific will be operated in the interest, as far as possible, of St. Louis and Missouri. The new Board will be composed wholly of Missourians, outside of himself, and among those already decided upon are C. R. Garrison, Oliver Garrison, D. R. Garrison, W. R. Garrison, Charles B. Chouteau, Webb M. Samuel, and Joseph L. Stevens. The new organization will be made on the basis of $800,000 paid-up stock, of which Commodore Garrison will take $600,000. This money is all to be expended in the purchase of steel rails and other improvements and equipments for the road. It is understeed that Commodore Garrison will make good the St. Louis County claim of $750,000, and with this settlement all litigation against the road will cease.

THE PACIFIC BOADS.

Special Dispatch to The Tribese.

Washingrow, D. C., Sept. 9.—In the saits of the Government against the Pacific Bailroads for the 5 per cent of carnings for carrying public freight and troops, an agreement his been filed by counsel that, pending the decision of these cases, no action will be taken on the judgment rendered last winter by the Supreme Court in favor of the roads for the amounts deducted by the United States on account of interest on the guarantee bonds.

CENTENNIAL FARES. NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The Railroad Ticket Agents, in convention to-day, made a reduction of 10 per cent on the present rates on Centennial tickets to New York and Philadelphia from all points west of Chicago and St. Louis. This makes, in all, a reduction of 35 per cent from the regular rates.

Special Disputch to The Tribuna.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—Lieut-Col.
Gillespie, of the Engineers' Corps, who has been here in consultation with the Chief of Emgineers relative to appropriations for rivers and harbors in this District, left to-night for his station at Chicago. In the revision of the river and harbor appropriations Col. Gillespie is allowed only $1,000 each for the Chicago and Calumet Rivers. $15,000 for the work at Michigan City. The instructions given by the President direct that no new work shall be carried on, and that no more shall be done on work already under construction than is sufficient to protect portional already completed. This amount is allowed Michigan City, because the cribs are under water, and a superstructure must be built to protect them.

agers of the horse-car companies do not ex-ercise good judgment at this season of the year in running the open and unprotected cars. During the two or three days of cold, bad, and wet weather of the last week, the number of open cars was apparently as large as in the warmest and pleasantest days of summer. We do not know what economy the car companies find in keeping the open cars running and withholding the closed cars, but we do know that this policy will have a serious effect on the health of the matics, and amateur hay-fevers are contracted from the exposure of these open cars in the raw autumn days, and when it is impossible to escape a driving rain, than in any other way. If there are people who enjoy the risk, then let the number of open ears be reduced at least, instead of keeping on the same proportion as during summer. If the ear managers are deficient as weather prophets they should employ a professional "probabilities" man. At all events, the health of the community lemands the exercise of better judgment in this matter.

It will be necessary to select all five of the Commissioners to be elected from men of undoubted integrity, in order to improve the character of the Board and protect the people from the Ring. The Commiss elected three years ago who go out this year are Lonkroan and Johnson from the West Side, Herrino from the North Side, Burdick from the South Side, and Busse from one of the country districts. Of these, BURDICK and Busse always, and Hesting usually, have voted against the Ring measures. It will be well to run Burdick and Bussa again, without regard to the national divisions in po LONERGAM is not a candidate, and JOHN-son, who is one of the indicted Commissioners, ought not to receive a nomination from either party. An excellent name has been suggested in the West Division —Grorge W. Newcharacter, and if another as good a n can be found to take the nomin him, these two places can be assured to the anti-Ring element in the Board. Neither party can afford to nominate for County Comoners any man whose past conduct or character warrants a suspicion that he will act with the County Ring. If all five of this year's vacancies can be filled with honest and brave men, who will fight the Ringsters as persistently as Buzpicz and Bussz have, the Ring will be a minority, and the scandal. waste, and thievery of the county adminis-tration will be brought to an end.

POLITICAL PERSONALITIES. The Democratic papers, and those professedly neutral sheets which favor the Democratic party, have been seized with a fit of bility. The attack was sudden and respectability. The attack was sudden and without any premonitory symptoms, and it is not certain how long it will last. It can hardly continue long, as it is not in keeping with constitutional and hereditary tendencies, and has been superinduced by local and tem-porary causes. This attack of respectability has taken the form of disgust at the use personalities in politics. They are astonished and effended that the Republicans should make personal assaults, not with bludgeons, indeed, but with printer's ink, on those distinguished characters, eminent for respectability, Mr. Samuel J. Tilden, Mr. Daniel VOORHEES, and Mr. Lew STEWARD. They had supposed that the election campaign was to be conducted as between gen-tlemen, and that politeness of speech and suavity of intercourse would characterize both parties. To insure this, the Democrats sifted their entire party to obtain "truly good men" and noted "reformers" as candidates; meaning thereby to rival the re-spectability of the Republican ticket, and to take away all temptation for mutual vilifica-tion. They expected only a collision of principles, and are greatly disappointed to see the columns of Republican papers filled with the severest personalities, and those, too, against Mr. TILDEN, a man of such "singleness of purpose" that he has never even taken a wife to himself!

even taken a wife to himself!

It is so unusual to see the Democracy assume the respectable rek, and to hear it talk of courtesy, that the explanation can only be that it is that sudden outbreak of virtue which sometimes immediately precedes death. Decency and death (let the Times observe) make a fair alliteration, and both naturally seize the Democracy at the same supreme moment. The opposition to personalities from this unexpected quarter somewhat confounds us. We recall the foul epithets which were heaped upon President epithets which were heaped upon President Lancoln, after as well as before his election, both by Northern and Southern Democrats; at which the civilized world expressed its disgust. Never before had such words as gust. Never before had such words as "ape" and "beast" been applied to a President of the United States by political opponents. And certainly no one detected an access of courtesy when Gen. Grant succeeded to the same high position, and was termed a "butcher" and "tyrant." As the time drew near for nominating another Re-publican Presidential candidate, and Mr. BLADER was the man most likely to be se-Brance was the man most likely to be se-lected, our readers will remember how the floodgates of vituperation were opened by Democratic Congressmen and editors, and how disappointed they were to lose further opportunity of using personalities when Mr. Blance was visely set aside and Mr. HAYES was nominated. Certainly the new scruples as to this method of political war-fare have had a sudden birth, and may die of personalities in the properly evil sense of that expression. There is a class of contro-versialists—political, theological, and re-formatory—for which we entertain small re-end which induces them to adopt their side of the contreversy. And, as their dependence is thus placed upon the throwing of mud, they become careless of the source whence they derive their vile material, and sadly confound imagination with memory and fiction with fact. And so a controversy loses all dignity and truthfulness, and degenerates into slander and blackguardism. We have no defense to make of that style of warfare, whether in politics or elsewhere.

But an election of rulers by the people is not a mere discussion of abstract topics, or a comparison of concrete measures. Great questions of political economy are indeed involved, and must occasion a choice between the parties which represent opposite views candidates are not opinions in the schools, or machines at an agricultural exhibition, but persons before a body of voters; and their precedes the election. In this sense the can vass must ever be personal. The names, the opinions, and the characters, of the can-didates will properly be upon all lips. Some-times citizens vote on the adoption of a State Constitution or other similar question, and cast a ballot marked "Yes" or "No." Then no personal issue can be raised. But if the voter must drop in the ballot-box a paper with the name of a person upon it, he must in-quire who and what that person is. Then it pecomes appropriate and necessary to ask reour confidence that we should aid in place him in a responsible position as a ruler? What are his political views, and what is his personal character? What has his past life een? How has he acted, when put to the test? In what manner has he served his country heretofore?" Every self-respecting voter will ask these "personal" questions, and the newspapers, properly anticipating such inquiries, will furnish the "personal" answers which the facts dictate. If they dhere to the facts, and coin no slanders, they are not to be blamed for making personal essaults, if the published facts severely against particular candidates. Every candidate submits himself to this investigating process when he consents to run for

This is especially true in connection with the present political campaign, in which the persons are as important as the principles. Probably the public is looking even more to the candidates than to the platforms. Both of the platforms promise civil-service reform and a return to specie-payments, after a fashion. It is easy to make general promises. The vital thing is, Who makes the prom and who is to fulfill at? The Republicans point to HAYES and WHEELER; the Democrate o Tunen and HENDRICKS, as the indorsers of the respective platforms. We are willing that the men should be compared, and should be taken or rejected, as their personal merits may decide. We expect the Democrats to exhibit, if they can, the personal unfitness of our candidates, and we know that we have unfitness of theirs. If we can do this, we fairly make out our case before an intelligent sensitiveness as to political personalities, of such sudden growth, is the offspring of fear as to the results of the investigation now in progress as to the two persons whom they have dared to present as candidates for the two highest offices in the gift of the people. The case begins to look not only serious but the legal advising of corruption, and railroad-wrecking, there is now to be added a per-jured return of income, the sooner their candidate withdraws the better for him and for the party. We mean to be ne more persons than are the facts which call for a verdict. It is not our fault that a Presidential election so far as the Democratic party is concerned should turn into a criminal trial, and that the American people, as a national jury, are to pronounce upon the arraigned SAMUEL J.

Thorn the verdict of Gullet!

THE WHISKY PROSECUTIONS. Within the last ten days, the distillers and rectifiers of Chicago who composed what has been popularly styled as the "first batch," being those whose establishments were seized in May, 1875, were brought before the United States District Court, and were discharged. The mystery which has hung over these case has been at last cleared up. The second division of the accused parties, arrested nearly a year later, have been tried, several of them convicted, and are in prison. That some arrangement had been made between the Government and the first batch was as-sumed, but what that arrangement was has never been made public. One of the first acts of Mr. Stoams upon his appointment as assistant to the United States Attorney was to have these cases called, and thus com-pel the formal and public pleading of the agreement in which full immunity from all criminal proceedings was guaranteed to them by the Government. That agreement has been published, and the public have had an opportunity to judge of its character. The theory of the Government's representatives has been that these men furnished the evidence upon which the subsequent arrests were made. It may not, perhaps, be just to criticise this agreement at this time, becould not judge of the fiture as it is now judged in the light of full experience; but the fact is none the less obvious that, estimating crime by its magnitude in each case. the larger fish were allowed to escape, expecting better in the second haul, which, however, resulted in a catch of comparative minnows. But the agreement was made, and had to be kept in good faith, and the first batch were discharged.

The second batch were supplemented by Messrs. Hesing and Renn, who were no Messra. Herno and Reim, who were not manufacturers and were not officials. The Government representatives, though they had testimony enough to convict Reim, accepted an offer on his part, and granted him immunity from imprisonment in the Penitentiary, and agreed that his imprisonment should not exceed six months. For this immunity he offered to prove the guilt of Warsworth, Munn, Ward, and others; but the trial of Munn, so clearly demonstrated.

WADSWORTH, MUNN, WARD, and others; but the trial of MUNN so clearly demonstrated the worthlessness of his testimony that the prosecution of the others was abandoned.

The second batch, with the exception of Russ and Parlman, all pleaded guilty, claiming that they were assured by the Government officers that they would be punished lightly, and all slike. This agreement, if it existed, was not kept; the sentences were varied; and from this fact we assume that no such agreement existed, as the representatives of the Government would not have violated faith. Included in the first hatch were civil liabilities, or responsibility on their bonds, for violations of the law. This is a question of fact as well as of law, and we understand the Government has already brought suits on all the bonds, and this question of immunity from civil penalties will be judicially determined. The result of the criminal trials or prosecutions has been the release, by immunity, of some fifty dis-tillers, rectifiers, Gaugers, and Storekeepers, and the conviction and imprisonment of ten or twelve, including REMM and HESING, and the escape by flight of half a dozen, with two or three not tried. The fifty were released to secure the conviction of the others.

The appointment of Mr. Stones includes, we understand, a general order from Washington to clear up the dockets of the whole business, by suits, trials, dismissals, and all other necessary judicial proceedings. Under this head falls a suit for the recovery from REMM of the money collected by him as chief manager of the Ring. In the trial of the MUNN case, REMM testified that he had been paid by the distillers, or collected from them, some $100,000, all of which he said he had expended for political purposes. But the men from whom he collected this money tell quite a different story; the sums stated by them to have been paid to REHM aggregate over $450,000. It is claimed that, taking his own testimony as well as that of others as to the services rendered by him, his case falls under the following section of the Revised Statutes .

Whenever any person removes or aids or abets in the removal of any distilled spirits on which the tax has not been paid, to a place other than the distillery warehouse provided by law, or conceals or aids in the concealment of any spirits so removed, he shall be liable to a pensity double the tax imposed on such distilled spirits so removed or concealed, and shall be fined not less than $200 nor more than $5,000, and imprisoned not less than three months nor more than three years. It is pot denied that Runn aided and abetted these men in all their operations, and it is claimed they paid him an equivalent of so many dollars per barrel of crooked whisky they could get upon the market free of tax. As the penalty recoverable by civil suit is double the amount of the tax withheld, the aggregate sum of REME's liability will far exceed even the most liberal estimate of the money collected by him of the manufac-turers. This penalty, to be enforced by civil suit, is independent of and in addition to the criminal proceedings. The promise of immunity or partial immunity in the criminal proceeding against REHM was successfully pleaded in mitigation of punishment in the criminal case. It did not then appear that the immunity extended to the Chief of the Ring included an exemption from civil suits; but, if such exemption was promised, the fact will unquestionably appear when the civil suit shall be heard and

A SCIENTIFIC MONSTER.

In all the possibilities of star-eyed Science, in all the ambitious outreachings and desperate grapplings of its votaries with the at-tainable and unattainable, there is nothing mere cold-blooded and complacently monbetter than to imagine ourselves, with Hux-Lex, to be the inhabitants of another planet, who, taking the opportunity of a scientific journey through the universe, have arrived upon the earth, and have there met with a peculiar two-legged mammal called man, dif-fused over the earth in great numbers. In order to examine him zoologically, we should pack a number of the individuals of dif-ferent ages and from different lands (as we should do with the other animals collected on the earth) into large vessels filled with spirits of wine; and, on our return to our planet, we should commence the comparative anatomy of all these ter-restrial animals quite objectively." With all deference to the opinion, of the eminent German sevent and his friend HUXLEY, we can do a great deal better than to pack up and set off on any such collection-tour as he suggests. It is the boast of Science that it is rigid, precise, and mathematical in all its demonstrations, scorning figments of fancy and air-castles of the imagination; but the suggestion of HARCKEL outdoes in all these characteristics anything that Science has yet evolved. It is inflexibly rigid, infernally precise, and sufficiently mathematical to give one a cold sweat, and make "each particular hair to stand on end, like quills upon the fretful porcupine." It adds to its monstrosity that it is patronizing, complacent, and diabelically kindly.
From the very manner in which he pictures this subjective nightmare, it is evident that HARCKEL would pickle his twolegged mammal as IZAAK WALTON hooked the worm,—putting him into the spirits of wine as though he loved him, and contemplating him with all the affection and pride a bug-collector displays in viewing his rare moth. There is something peculiarly horrible, even though it may be fascinating, in the vision of Herr HARCKEL setting out with HUXLEY and other kindred spirits, armed and equipped with huge nets and monstrous jars filled with alcohol, prepared to capture some 'choice specimens of Plato's two-legged animals without feathers. After running down as many as they can After running down as many as they can carry, they return home with their booty, pickled away as the zoologist preserves his snakes, lizards, and horned frogs, each jar carefully labelled with unintelligible polysyllabic descriptions of the late deceased. We can imagine these savants with saws, hatchets, pulleys, carving-knives, microscopes, and chemicals, cutting, sawing, tearing, melting, chemicals, cutting, sawing, tearing, melting, burning, ripping, pulling, analyzing, and investigating, to find the hidden link that binds man to his brother ape, orang-outang, or monkey, and shouting with horrible glee as the sphynx-like mystery of where the tail begins in one and ends in the other is at last solved, and it is proven that man, who was created a little lower than the angels, is after all but a degree removed from the jumping chimpanzee.

all but a degree removed from the jumping chimpanzee.

The gusto and mental smacking of lips with which Herr HARCHEL ennunciates his suggestion rather argues that he would enjoy such an expedition, and this, taken in connection with the gigantic strides of Science during the past few years, gives rise to a horrible suspicion that the monstrous picture in Herr Harches i lively imagination may yet become a reality. Science scorns all limita-tions, and disdains as false everything that cannot be demonstrated. Are we going too far, therefore, in assuming that such a picknever been called for trial or sentence. We understand that, under instructions from Washington, these persons will be called this week, and any agreement which has been made in their cases will be made public, and put on record; and, if they were promised immunity, they will be discharged. This will complete the criminal record of the whisky prosecutions, except in the case of Horr, and of some others who are fugitives.

The civil penalties in all these cases are, under the law, if enforced, very heavy. It is claimed, we believe, by the first batch, that the immunity granted them by the Government included a total exemption from all civil liabilities, or responsibility on their BULL, Boss Tweed, and Cone-Shell Revwolds, may some day find themselves put to soak in elegant glass jars, packed away hermetically in tin cans like oysters, or deposited in boxes like sardines, awaiting Herr Horokel's or Prof.
HUXLEY's inquisitive scalpel and persuasive saw? We assume that this is not impossible, because nothing is impossible to Science; but in case such a contingency should ever arise we have a suggestion to make. If Tom Jones and John Brown are brothers of the roaring orang-outlang and squealing, ringroaring orang-outang and squealing, ring-tailed monkey, then Herr Harcker and Prof. HUXLEY are similarly related to all the similarly. Being thus related, why should these scientists itch to pickle and analyze Tom Jones and John Brown? Why not voluntarily offer themselves as sacrifices to stareyed Science? Why does not Herr HARCKEL frankly go to Prof. HUXLEY and say: "I am convinced that I am brother to a monkey. Take me and pickle me. Carve me and analyze me. Demonstrate to the world beyond the possibility of cavil that we are all monkeys, and do the work with your customary neatness, dispatch, and mathematical cor-rectness." There are hundreds of scientists in the world. If they were public-spirited their comparative anatomy might be thus examined "quite objectively," and no unscientific person would object. CHICAGO WHOLESALE TRADE. recently gave prominence to a letter from this city setting forth the reasons for believ-ing that Chicago is to be the great jobbing centre of this country, and that a very large bulk of the wholesale business of New York will be transferred to this point. The suggestion of the letter was the location of a wholesale house in Chicago by the New York firm of A. T. STEWART & Co., and the fac that the views advanced were printed withseems to indicate an admission of the fact as not to be disputed. If there were no other sign of Chicago's commercial destiny than the circumstance that its business has gone on increasing steadily ever since the panie, while that of nearly every other city in the United States has been on the declin this alone would be sufficient to warrant th conclusion that Chicago will take the lead as commercial centre. THE TRIBUNE'S last annual review showed the volume of business done in Chicago in 1875 be $657,000,000, as against $639,000,000 in 1874,—an increase of $18,000,000, notwithstanding the produce trade of the year had fallen off nearly 7 per cent. The increase in the wholesale trade and manufactures was 7 per cent over the previous year, which, allowing for the shrinkage n values, really amounted to an increase 0 per cent in the volume of business done The increase in the bulk of the dry-good trade was estimated at fully 25 per cent. This year some decline was apprehended by the merchants, partly on account of the con-tinued hard times and shrinkage in prices, and partly because it was thought the Centennial Exposition, likely to attract many visitors, might be the occasion of temporarily transferring a part of the Western purchases to Eastern cities. The result has proved both apprehensions to be unfounded. It is almost the universal testimony of the wholesale merchants that the business of the first half of the present year has been larger than that of the corresponding term in 1875.

and the indications are that the fall trade will this year show a proportionate in-crease. However large the number of Western visitors to the Centennial may have been or shall be between now and the close of the Exposition; it has already been demonstrated that the advan-tages which Chicago possesses for the jobbing trade are so decided that an accidental visit to Eastern cities for pleasure or sight-seeing offers no inducement to country merchant to buy their goods there in preference to Chicago. These advantages may be briefly summed up in the central location of Chicago, its vast railroad connections, the anterprise of its merchants, the adoption of the system of short credits, and the growth of a direct importation of foreign manufac-tures which makes a saving of from 11 to 2 per cent on freights. The territory which Chicago naturally supplies is the richest, and the sections naturally tributary to Chicago the most prosperous, in the country. The agricultural interests of the West North west and Southwest that look to Chicago as their metropolis, have been less affected by the hard times than any other interests in the country, and Chicago has enjoyed the benefit of their comparative prosperity. If the jobbing trade is to give way in large degree in the future to direct dealings between the manufacturers and the retail men, then Chicago will maintain the same advantages under the new order of things. This change will be slow and gradual, but the manufacturing enterprise of this city will keep in advance of it. From an article in the last number of the Western Manufacturer we recall some astonishing instances of the growth the city has already made as a manufacturing centre. Of the ten BESSEMER steel works in the United States, two are located in Chicago, and of the 291,000 ten

BESSEMER steel rails made in the country last year, 85,000 tons, or nearly one-third of the entire amount, were made in Chicago. The iron industries have 200 establishments, employ 10,000 workmen, and manufacture to the amount of $35,000,000 annually. The planing-mills employ 4,000 laborers, and manufacture to the value of $10,000,000 annually. There are 75 furniture factories that employ 3,000 skilled workmen, and make $6,000,000 worth of furniture annually. Chicago is said to take the lead of every other city in the Union take the lead of every other city in the Union in the manufacture of clothing, has the largest single factory in America, counts more than 25 establishments in all, and produces $10,000,000 worth of clothing a year. There are as many boot and shoe factories, which produce $3,500,000 worth of these articles annually; in one branch of this industry Chicago is already in advance of the eld New England boot and shoe factory towns, and this has an important auxiliary in the production of leather, which amounts to about as much more per year, and which has gained the reputation of being the best in the world. Other manufacturing interests are advancing in proportion, and pari passis with the growth of the jobbing trade within a circle of 100 miles are other and large man-

The Chicago house of A. T. STEWART & Co. can be in no sense a branch establishment.

It will have can be in no sense a branch establishment. It will have to compete with one establishment doing nearly $20,000,000 of business a year, another doing nearly $17,000,000, and several doing from $2,500,000 to $5,000,000. It will be obliged, therefore, to transact business on the same large scale and in the same direct and independent way as in New York. It is reasonably estimated that, directly and indirectly, this change will add $10,000,000 to the volume of Chicago's trade the first year, and a proportionate intrade the first year, and a proportionate increase thereafter. All the business and all the various interests of Chicago will receive a share of the increase it is sure to bring. The prospect of this has already made its impress. The business men are more hopeful, buoyant, and enterprising than ever. Real estate values and rents have been strengthened, and it is felt that the material and commercial progress of the city in the future will be more rapid than ever, notwithstanding the exceptional growth of the past. It has added a feeling of security and a confidence in the permanency and solidity of Chicago's business and growth among the people of the whole country,—a feeling that has always been cherished in Chicago in spite of all efforts to counteract it, and in spite of calamities and misfortunes, general and

The Greenville (N. C.) Enterprise is a newspaper which complains bitterly because the Republicans wave the bloody-shirt. Yet this same newspaper says: "The Demo-crats everywhere have by words branded the Republicans with infamy, and called them thieves and scoundrels. It ill becomes a Democrat who thus speaks to associate with men whom he thus denounces! Gov. Vancz once asked BEN HILL how it was that Georgia had got so far ahead of North Carolina in putting down Radicalism. HILL replied the reason was very obvious. When a man of social position joins the Radical party in Georgia we not only brand him with infamy but we put him in coventry, and all ocial intercourse with him is broken off. But in North Carolins you meet him and treat him as you formerly did! In the one case he feels his infamy and is deterred, and in the other case he does not. This remark is worthy of all consideration, and let every true Democrat act on it." The Missouri papers contain long oblituary notices of Gen. M. JEFF THOMPSON, who died recently at St. Joseph. He was born at Harper's Ferry, Va., Jan. 22, 1826. He then returned to St. Joseph and was appointed City Engineer. In 1859 he was elected Mayor of the city, and at the close of his term went into the real-estate business, in which he remained until the outbreak of the War, when he went South and was made Brigadier-General of the Missouri State Guards. In 1862 he was captured and kept a prisoner over a year at Fort Delaware. He was afterward sent to Charleston, where he was exchanged. M. NEFFIZER was one of those strong and solid natures which the Teutonic and and Protestant element supplied by Alsace-Lorraine gave to France. He was educated at the Protestant College at Strasburg, and to the end of his life kept up his intimacy with the movement of the German intellect, especially in the spheres of historical research and philosophical speculation. M. NEFFIZER was not only a hard-working journalist, but as a translator did eminent service in interpreting German thought to the French mind. He made the Temps, it is said, a great business success, but he also won a distinguished place among Parisian newspapers as a sensible, moderate, and at the same time carnest organ of Liberalism in politics and thought. M. NEFFIZER was deeply affected by the melancholy issue of the war and the annexation of his native province to the German Empire. He was only 55 years of age when he died.

After some time, he is told, by a claver physician, that his mother, for whose sake the robbery was committed, is dead; he bursts into tears, and is restored to reason.

The London Speciator accuses Lord Beaconsfield of writing the proclamation in which notice is given of the Imperial Assembly in India for the purpose of publishing Queen Victoria's new title. It calls attention to the wording of the document as bearing a striking resemblance to the passage in the Book of Daniel in which is recorded the calling together of "the Princes, the Governors, and the Captains, the Judges, the Treasurers, if e Counselors, the Sheriffs, and all the rulers of the Provinces, to the dedication of the image which Nebuchadnezzar the King had set up."

The English religious newspapers somewhat hastily went into cestasies over the achievements of Mr. Stanley in Africa, regarding him, by some curious transference of ideas, as the legitimate successor of Livingstone in the work of Christianizing the natives. The average religious journal when it goes into ecutasies over a person does not soon cease to be ecstatic; and it was consequently quite a thing to be aspected that the murdegoes performances of Mr. Stanley's elephant-rife should be celebrated in the columns of all the erthodox newspapers in England. At any rate, such has been the case. The result has been a mixture of plety and crime that would be amusing if it was not calculated to shock sensitive minds.

The New York Post says: "Charles Calverley, N. A., the sculptor of the Elliott bust, and the colossal head of John Brown, which is swned by the Union League Club, has just finished in plaster a colossal bust of the late Horaco Greeley. It is to be cast in bronze and set up in Greenwood Cemetery. The portrait represents Mr. Greeley as he appeared in his prime, some 10 or 12 years ago. The head is firmly set upon the shoulders, and, to evercome the somewhat mechanical squareness of the shoulders that always belongs to a portrait bust, the figure is represented as wearing the "old white evercost" which was a characteristic part of Mr. Greeley's winter attire. Mr. Calverley says that the togs would not do in this case, but the overcoat answers an admirable purpose, as it gives dignity to the figure. The expression of the face is pleasant and the portrait is excellent. The bust is to rest upon a granity pedestal ornamented with bronze tablets, one representing Mr. Greeley as a printer working at the case, and the other bearing his name, together with the simple record of his birth and death.

It but infrequently occurs that a meatpacking establishment obtains more than a national reputation for excellence at the most; but one of Chicago's filustrious institutions, the beef-packing house of Libby, McNell & Libby, has obtained so wide-spread a popularity that immense portions of their product finds its way into all the civilized lands of the world. Their cooked corn-beef is a prominent feature of the concern. It is indorsed and approved by the highest medical faculty, and has received the highest possible commendation of the French Government, by whom it is fiftirmed to be the purgest known in the world, and this decision was only reached after the most exacting tests had been applied.

An item of interest to all at this season of the year is to know where to obtain the favorite bivalve in its natural purity, without its being washed or doctored in Chicago. At Annapolis, Md., there is an oyster-packing-house owned by Stanly, Stephens & Co., of 281 Madison street, near the bridge. All goods are canned and packed without unnecessary delay, in their natural juice, and shipped to them here. These oysters are known as the "Continental" brand, and our readers should ask their marketmen for this brand, and be sure of getting a pure and good oyster. WHAT IS ACCOMPLISHED

VEGETINE.

When the blood becomes weak and impoverished from whatever cause, the whole system is thrown out of order, and, taough the sufferers may not be sick enough to take the bed, they are poorly prepared to resist the cold, bleak weather attending the winter season. The person may be thickly clad, if the circulation of the blood is poor they will shiver with the cold. There is nothing which will so fortify the system against cold or chaageable weather as quick circulation of good, pure blood. The Vecetims will reasw the blood, give tone to the stomach, restore the liver to its proper action, stimulate the kidneys so as to enable them to perform the functions devolving upon them, carry off the putrid numors, regulate the bowels, and restore the whole system to working order. This is precisely what Vecetims and this is the exact way through which it has accomplished so many wonderful cure, as may be seen from the following uaquestionable evidence:

DEAR SIE: I feel I must say a few words about the Vreutrike. The physicians said I had so many complaints they did not know what to give me. They said I had a bad humor, and I had the kidney complaint, the liver complaint, my heave was very weak, and I don't think there is any one who suffered more with the piles than I did. The physicians all said if was no me for me to take medicine; I could not live through the month of May. I truly think the Vrsuarrive has saved my life, and my neighbors say that the Vrsuarrive has neved my life, and my neighbors say that the Vrsuarrive has haved my life, and my neighbors say that the Vrsuarrive has the life world. The President believes the only country where they can hope for permanent improvement is the Indian Territory, inasmuch as the removal of the Indians to the Missouri River will necessarily be temporary, if they shall agree to go directly to the Indian Territory next season, they shall be permitted to remain at the Agency until that time; but, before any such removal from their reservation, they may select a delegation of five of more from each band to visit the country proposed for their future home, and thus satisfy themselves as to its desirability.

THE MILWAUKEE IRON COMPANY.

Special Disposed to The Tribuna.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 9.—The condition of the kilwankee Iron Company is about this: The Company has a very large amount of valuable property, including extensive works, second to nose in completeness in the country. They have done an immense business, but, owing to the great depression of trade and prices, they have been unable to meet their maturing paper. They are preparing a full statement of their matters for presentation to their creditors, when they considently hope an arrangement will be made which will enable them to continue their works in full operation. They are to day paying their employes, upwards of 1,300 in number. It is extremely gratifying to hear on every hand the kind feeling expressed towards the Company. I have so far heard not one word other than of good will and expressions of sympathy with the Company trouble, nor have I neard a syllable whispered against the management of the Company's affairs. Its Board of Directors is composed of our most solid, substantial, and ablest business men here, and I have ne doubt that, after their next meeting, the prospects will be much brighter, and that arrangements will be made satisfactory alike to the creditors, the bond-holders, and to the stockholders. There is still another feature worthy of notice here. All the workmen, foremen and others, have the utmost confidence in the management of the works, and have nothing but kindly feelings towards their employers.

FALLING WALLS.

Special Dispatch to The Tribuna.

Maddison, Wis., Sept. 9.—Quite a serious accident occurred to the new Science Hall of the University this morning, which will not only delay the completion of the building, but prove a considerable loss to the contractor, David Stephens. The northwest wing had just been completed, the boarding of the roof being all on. The walls, however, were very green, the mortar having no time to set. The rain falling so continuously for nearly a week, with the torrents that fell this morning, caused a giving away of the walls where the roof trusses rest, and soon after the entire upper story of the walls nearest the lake, also the rear end wall, fell in. Loss estimated by the contractor, about $3,000. FALLING WALLS.

FIRES.

IN PHILADELPHIA. PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 9.—At half-past 4 this afternoon a fire broke out in Murphy's oyster saloon, on Eim avenue, opposite the Main Exhibition Building, and before it was extinguished communicated to and destroyed property to the value of about $80,000. The flames spread east, west, and south, consuming the en-tire lot of buildings on Elm avenue from the Trans-Continental Hotel to the Ross House, about 20 in all, including several variety shows, about 20 in all, including several variety shows, beer-gardens, restaurants, etc. These structures were all frame, one, two, and three stories high. The fire spread back from Elm to Columbia avenue, taking in all the intervening property, including the New England Hotel, a boarding-house and ice-cream saloon, and restaurant, all two-story buildings. The wildest excitement prevailed both in and out side the Centennial grounds. People flocked to the scene of the fire by thousands, and it is gatimated that there were at least 60.00 persons in the immediate vicinity. The Trans-Continental Hotel caught fire on the roof four different times, but the flames were immediately extinguished. So intense was the heat that its corched the paint on the turn-stiles at the entrance-gates of the Exhibition, requiring a stream to be played upon them and upon the southern side of the main Exhibition building. A man is in custody on suspicion of having southern side of the main Exhibition building.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 9.—No information has yet reached the State Department regarding the alleged arrest of Tweed in Spain. It is undoubtedly the fact that a request was made for his arrest and delivery, and the officials believe that he will be delivered if ever captured in Spain in return for similar action taken a various times, and especially in the case of Arguillez in 1864. Arguillez was a Spanish officer on duty in Cuba, and having captured officer on duty in Cuba, and having captured a cargo of slaves, which had been brought from Africa, was supposed to have freed them in accordance with the law. He, however, had sent them into thein terior, where they were sold, and Arguillez escaped to New York with the proceeds. On his return to Cuba he was convicted of the offense, and executed.

GLADSTONE'S VIEWS.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Mr. Gladstone addressed a meeting of his constituents on Blackheath this afternoon on the Eastern question. The weather was unfavorable, a heavy rain failing, yet 12,-000 people were present to hear the ex-Prime Minister and give him an enthusiastic re-ception. Mr. Gladstone said throughout is experience he had never with ment to compare with that which had started up the last two weeks throughout England coneerning the atrocities. Mr. Schuyler's report, coming from the representative of the nation, the inhabitants of which we rejoice to call breththe inhabitants of which we rejoice to call brethren, and from one whose personal character and trustworthiness he had taken pains to ascertain, had produced the most marked impression on his mind, and convinced him that he could no longer bear the responsibility of remaining silent. Mr. Gladstone then proceeded to show the Turkish Government was responsible for the atrocities. Resolutions

Restoration of a Famous North Side Land-mark.—An Architectural and Business Im-provement of Uncommon Magnitude. The chief improvement of the North Division is the new Uhlich Block just being completed on North Clark street, a little way beyond the bridge. This handsome structure occupies the same location and is the legitimate successor of the famous old Uhlich Block, which was one of the most important buildings in Chicago previthe most important buildings in Chicago previous to the fire. The present edifice is not only the most substantial and complets business block in the North Division, but it takes prominent rank with the very best blocks to be found in any part of Chicago. It is the only large block in the North Division wholly devoted to business; being a permanent store and office building, admirably designed, superbly built, and conveniently arranged. It is of Amherst sandstone, three stories and a deep basement high. The basement is perfectly arranged, having accommodations for business houses on the north wing, while the south wing is adapted peculiarly for warehouse purposes. The accessibility of this warehouse basement to the railroads, its thorough ventilation, and other excellent features, will commend it at once to the favorable attention of parties desfring such accommodations. The 10 stores on the main floor are sensibly planned, and the array includes a double store at each corner. The offices in the succeeding floors are arranged single and en suite, and commend themselves to the good opinion of everybody. There is room for all applicants in Uhlich Block. The third floor, with its spacious and elegant halls for public use, societies, etc., and its fine anterooms and offices, is a prize for some enterprising person of moderate means. We understand that this whole floor can be obtained by a single responsible tenant if desired, who can sub-let the halls, etc., to societies and other applicants. The rent is held at a very reasonable figure, and there ought to be a comfortable fortune in this floor alone to some sagacious tenant. We have hardly the space to descant at this time upon the many excellencies of Uhlich Block; its handsome finish; its upper floors of the best Southern pine; its sterling fire-proof qualities, and other numerous attractive features. We cannot, however, avoid agood word in behalf of its magnificent location. It is easier of access than any other great structure of its kind in Chicago. The viadu ous to the fire. As soon as ane was able to leave her bed, a Boston wife knocked down her husband with a nursing-bottle because the baby was cross-eyed. As an offset to this domestic incident, it is proper to mention here that a Cleveland man whipped his wife because the baby did not take the first prize at the recent baby show.

The only house in America following out strictly the ideas of William Morris, Charles L. Eastlake, and Prof. Dresser, in house-decorating, is that of John J. At this time you, who are putting up your reather pillows and nar matteresses of solectionable zooids, which owe their origin to the animal matter which was not entirely removed from the articles at the time of their manufacture. The animal heat which naturally remains causes a kind of fermentation, which, if allowed to go on unchecked, is productive of headaches and other symptoms of ill health among those who use the pillows and mattresses. To thoroughly cleane these articles of these malarious influences is one of the problems which has long vexed housekeepers. The Feather and Mattress Renovating Company have recently patented a process whereby this desirable end is absolutely secured by the use of steam. All the animal secretions are removed, rendering the articles chemically pure and incapable of producing any noxious effects. The effice of the Company, which is in charge of Mr. Pleasant Amick, is located at 345 West Van Bureh street.

The prices charged are as low as those of the ordinary upholsterers, who simply remove the dust, and allow the animal matter to remain.

Men who have stood where thousands fell, who have gazed unmoved upon the horrors of the battlefield and the wrecks of the storm, cannot, without emotion, behold the devastation and mangled ruin which marks the progress of a woman with a scythe. Nature shudders when it sees a woman strong a stone, but when it sees a woman swinging a scythe, it just tries to cover up its head and keep out of sight until the ruin is complete. Oil Paintings.

Those who would be convinced of the efficacy of Eupeon have only to read the testimonials of well-known citizens of this city and other places which appear in the advertising columns of this paper to-day. No family should be without a bottle of Eupeon, for it will, besides curing rheumatism, neuralgis, headache, etc., instantly relieve the pain from a burn, bruise, or cut. It is soid by druggista everywhere.

Here is an item both astonishing and interesting: A parlor set, seven pieces, veneered frames, only $50. The best woven-wire mattress on earth, $7.50, and genuine curled hair mattresses, $11, now offered by the heavy retaff furniture dealers, Colby & Wirts, 217 and 219 State street. In this age of misrepresentation, the deceptive assertions of pretentious manufacturers are familiar to all, and to find a preparation possessing actual and positive merits is remarkable and noteworthy. One of the most valuable remedial agents ever discovered is Stephens' Indian Vegetable Bitters. It is a positive relief for such distressing disorders as dyspepsia, liver complaint, costiveness, disease of the kidneys, and indeed all diseases arising from impurities of the blood. The highest recommendation its virtues can receive is the unqualified praise and heartfelt appreciation of all by whom it has been used.

Buffering of His Wife.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

DRAR SIB: I feel it my duty to say a word in praise of VEORTINE. My wife has been troubled with a bad humor for several years, which she inherited from her parents. We have tried several physicians and a great many different kinds of medicine, with but little benefit. She was so much emaciated that we had almost despaired of her ever being any better. Hearing of the VEORTINE, we resolved to try once more, and she commenced using it last March, and has been improving in health ever since. From 104 pounds ahe has advanced to 135 pounds, having gained 31 pounds in seven months, and is now able to be about her work. In shore, she believes that VEORTINE has been the means of saving her life, and that she cannot say too much in its praise. If it pheases you to make the set of the month of seving her life, and that she cannot say too much the bottle, and is still using it, and it can safely recommend it has a great blood purifier. BATHERS AT LONG BRANCH.

BATHERS AT LONG BRANCH.
Let us walk down the steps opposite the West and Hotel and stretch ourselves on the sand alle we take a bird's-eye view of the Nereids fashionable life. Here is a nymph, attired in blue flannel blouse, with a broad belt round a waist, Turkish trowsers to match, her "white of glancing bare" in the warm sand and her ir twisted tightly up on the top of her head d surmounted by a seedy-looking coarse straw thing hat, tied down with an old piece of led red tape. She is the young married stating hat, tied down with an old piece of ded red tape. She is the young married onde, who was pronounced last night the santy of the West End ball-room, as she swept trough the dance with the "poetry of grace" every motion. Her dress of rich white k with point lace trimmings, her antifully arranged hair in its thick asses, decorated only with a single red rose, mbined to make her the perfection of loveliss, and how charming her little feet looked sped in their well-fitting white satin shoes, abroidered in gold. Why, the twist of her ir under her bathing hat is not one-fourth the quantity that adorned her head last that, and, gracious heavens! she has a bunion one foot and corns on the other! Here is other young goddess of the sea whose bright as are familiar beacons. How delicious she ked at the breakfast-table this morning in delicate like batiste, made paler in color by white same have here and a sea whose bright we have a bounder and the same have a sea whose bright white same and were here. eyes are familiar beacons. How delicious she looked at the breakfast-table this morning in her delicate lilac batiste, made paler in color by the whiteness of the shoulders and arms beneath, and tastefully trimmed with white cluny lace. Her bright brown hair, however, was her chief attraction. Then it was arranged in a thick single braid which sat like a turban on the head, held up by a dainty tortoise-shell comb, fastened in a triplet of crown-like leaves. Beneath this the luxuris ant curls fell freely over her back and shoulders. Yes, despite the wonderful magnificence of the growth, it is all nature, after all! See, there are the same thick tresses flowing from the oil-silk cap drawn close to the head and falling gracefully over the bust. Her bathing-dress is of scarlet flannel, trimmed with white, and, as it sits somewhat closely, it well displays the neat, plump figure. The skirt is short and full, and the trowsers are gathered in a frill around a finely-turned ankle. She is a good bather, for she struggles fearlessly through the waves. Silly girl! Why does she not dire under the water for the sake of health? Ah, she is in the hands of a strong male bather now, and he will wet those splendid curls. He is the tall gentleman with the black beard who paid such marked attention to her at the breakfast-table, and he knows the prudence of dipping the head. He holds her firmly by both hands, and as a big wave comes curling along he gives her the full benefit of the foaming shower. The shock must have frightened her, for she wrenches her hands from his grasp and hurries ashore as rapidly as clinging garments and receding waters will permit. Now she reaches the sands, and makes a rush for the bathing-house. But her need! her head! What transfiguration has come over her? Alas! the fastenings beneath the oil-silk cap have been torn away by the unfecling breakers. How Tight. They Wear them.

The extremities to which fashion has advanced in London in female attire are really deplorable. A lady on whose truthfulness I can depend condess to me the following particulars: She was asked the other day to inspect the wedding troussean of a young lady of high rank. The dresses were very numerous and beautiful, and every accessory of attire was in the height of fashion, if not of good taste. "But where," inquired my friend, "is the under-clothing?"

"On," said the milliner with a smile or pity, "ladies wear none nowadays. They wear these instead." And she pointed to three complete suits, not of armor, but of chamods leather.

It is only over chamods leather that the skirts from Worth can be strained tight enough. At Bristol, the other day, the Mayor gave an entertainment to the Lord Mayor of London, and the occasion seemed so important that one lady guest sent to Paris for her dinner-dress. It was so tight when it came that she had to take off garment after garment before she could get into it at all. And then she had to sit down at table. I am told that her sufferings were considerable during the repast; but her worst misery was the reflection, "How shall I get up again!" Eventually she did get up, thanks to the gentlemen on each side of her, who pulled down the refractory garment by main force.

At the very last drawing-room at Buckingham Palace a similar catastrophe took place. A lady made her bow to the Queen a little too low for her "kicking-strap" (as a man would call it, but I dare say Mr. Worth has some prettier name), and it slipped down so far that she could not get up again. The Lord High Chancellor himself had to come forward and set her straight.—R. Kemole's English Gossip in Harper's Bazar.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS.

The Cincinnati Enquirer, in its report of the Allen-Goas prize-fight, says: "Along about the eighteenth or nineteenth round, a ripple of surprise ran through the crowd, caused by the appearance of a woman on the scene. She was a tall, angular woman, of probably 45 or 50 years, with an all-pervading voice, and a blue cotton umbrella, and as she dismounted from the buggy in which she rode, and walked toward the ring, the boys made a respectful passageway for her benefit. 'I came to see this 'ere fight,' said she, 'and I want to speak to the men.' Joe and Tom, who were then executing a pas dedex in the attempt of one to get in a blow-on the other, stopped a moment, marched across the ring, and spoke to their visitor, both of them shaking hands with her, while Col. Eph, with his well-known gallantry for the sex, welcomed Mrs. Gorman-for that was her name—to the entertainment. She took her place well up to the corner where Goss belonged, and was a close and interested spectator during the remainder of the fight, commenting on everything that occurred, and clapping her hands when anything took place to awaken her admiration. At length, when the fight was over and Goss declared victor, she manifested her sympathies with Allen by crawling between the ropes into the ring and shaking hands with him. After this part of her duty had been performed, she gathered up the meek-looking masculine who had come along with her, presumably her husband, pushed him into the buggy, and drove off. Talk about the dawn of woman's rights! When she can go to a prize fight and shake hands with the principals, and cheer and clap hands like a b'hoy, her day is not far off."

HOW SHE TRADED.

She swept into our largest dry-goods store esterday (says the Troy Press), with the easy race that belongs as a birthright to America's aughters, stopping at the glove counter. The office derk rushed forward to wait on her with note of interrogation in each eve. She asked or kid gloves. "Yes'm. What size'm?" A corgoous pull-back passed her, and she turned o look at it, and then ejaculated, "Kid gloves." Yes'm, what size'm?" "Why, Miss Sue, how to you do? Hayn't seen you for an age," etc. Good-by," and she turns to the patient clerk and transfixes him with a stony stare, and again lemands in an injured tone, "Kid gloves." Yes'm, what size'm?" asked the now tomewhat excited clerk. "Oh, why, five and three-quarters." The box containing six losen of avery conceivable shade is placed before ber. Carefully she looks at each one of its 21 pairs, draws some 17 pairs out of their remains packages, burst the bands that held them in dozens, and them remarks, "Why, I

A BASKET OF BABIES. A BASKET OF BABIES.

While Maj. Howngan, the ever active and watchful manager in the depot shed (says the Kansas City Times), was directing the Eastern arrivals to their trains yesterday morning, his watchful eyes lighted upon a basket. P. S.—Don't set the tea-pot on the stove. CARRYING AN UMBRELLA.
One of the most cheerful sights in the world (says the New York Commercial) is the graceful abandon with which the American and especially the New York woman, carries the umbrella which shades her fair face from the sun. That which shades her fair face from the sun. That instrument of torture—for it proves to be one in many instances—is borne along at the same height and with the same unvarying steadiness in the surging crowd of Broadway as on the retired cross-streets up-town. It does not matter to her how dense the crowd is, or how fast it goes hurrying by, the parasol is sternly immovable, and as the tips of the wires are on the level of the sverage man's eye, it is not strange occasionally one penetrates that delicate organ. Nothing could be more different than she way in which a man and woman carry the umbrella. The former keeps it constantly moving in order to accommodate the crowd; the woman sweeps along, and, if anybody's hat or eyes are in the way, it is not her fault.

THE KIND OF A HAIRPIN SHE WAS. A lady who lived at Martha's Vineyard 88 years died recently, and the ladies who prepared her for the grave found the natural hair to be entirely woven in among the false hair, and so much so as to oblige the use of scissors to remove the latter, which had not been removed from the head for more than thirty years. After its removal there were taken from it, by actual count, 180 common pins, that had been put in one at a time to keep the hair in position. In one article of her wardrobe were found 308 pins, put there to hold the article together. There were in bureau drawers 98 new dress-patterns, of all kinds and qualities, which had never been made up. Some of these patterns can be traced back to the time of purchase, 64 years ago. She left one elegant brocade silk dress which can be traced back 400 years

"Yes, miss," was his bluff response, feeling that she was yielding,—"on very particular personal business." And he proudly turned to go away.

FUN.

At the hour of retirement, last evening (says the Cincinnati Times), it was found almost impossible to get John Henry's 4-year-old hopeful to leave his mother's bed-room and go to bed. There was a diabolical expectancy of infinite fun on the cherub's countenance, and such stern measures as a slipper had to be resorted to before he could be driven away. But when, in the dead hour of the night

There rose the cry of a woman shrift As shrick of goss-hawk on the hill; when Mrs. Henry bounded from the bed, frantic with fright; and when from the white folds of her rose de mait were picked seven good-sized pinchbuga, it began to be understood what that talented youngster had been awaiting. THE POSONBYS.

They were sitting on the front porch enjoying the evening air and gazing at the canopy of heaven thickly studded with glittering stars. "How incomprehensible," exclaimed Mr. Posonby, "is the vastness of Nature! Each glittering orb of the myriads we now behold is a sun more glorious than our own and the centre of a grand planetary system, and their centres in their turn revolve around other centres still more magnificent. How wonderful are the eternal laws which hold this universe of worlds in their unchanging orbits, and—" "Yes," said Mrs. Posonby, "and the man didn't bring us half enough ice to-day, and I'm just certain that corned beef will spoil before morning. Did you order those mackerel to day?"—Burlington Hawkeys. THE POSONRYS.

"What exquisite preserves, Mrs. Smoothly; how do you have such splendid luck with everything you put up!" complimented one of the ladies at the tea-table. "What are they, by the way!" Mrs. Smoothly is taken by surprise, but recovers herself, and calls the servant. "I have not tasted them yet," she said, "and have really forgotten what I ordered the girl to put on for you. Bridget, what are these preserves?" "Thim, ma'am? "O pai" he breathlessly exclaimed, "the bung has come out of the cider-barrel, and it's all over the cellar."

"Well, I declare," grasped the stricken man in a despairing voice. "One trouble follows

Jones is suing for a divorce from his wife, who has deceived him. He could not help, after discovering her guilt, rating her soundly for it. "The idea," she said, bursting into tears,— "the idea of treating me so brutally, when I had given myself so much trouble to keep you from knowing anything of it so as not to worry you! And this is the thanks I get!"—Paris Figure.

A gentleman, dining with a friend one day, was struck with the earnestness with which one of the little girls regarded him. He therefore took her upon his knee and began talking with her. "Please, sir," said she, presently, "tell me what's in the house next to yours. I'd like to see it." "Tell me, my little dear, why you wish to know?" "Because, sir, I heard mamma say that you were next door to a brute."

A lady, examining the handsome display of gloves and hosiery at the Fair yesterday, wisely remarked, as her eyes rested upon a pair of tenbutton kids, "Yes, they are very handsome, but one doesn't want to wear them unless she has a handsome arm." "And likewise those," significantly added her companion, as she pointed to a pair of handsomely embroidered sock—we ask pardon, did some one say "Oh"?—Rochester Democrat.

"You are entirely welcome, ma'am," said one of our courteous citizens, the other day, as he yielded his seat in the horse-car to a young and attractive lady. She looked puzzled, and so did the listening passengers. "Entirely welcome—entirely so," reiterated 'the courteous 'citizen. "I didn't hear your thanks, but you are just as welcome for all that." The blushes of one passenger and the suppressed titter of the others indicated that they all saw the point.—Boston

One evening last week, a group of five young ladies met a young gentleman out on North Hill. They were all old acquaintances, and, after a few moments' conversation, the young man thoughtlessly invited them to accompany him to an ice-cream saloon. IS SHE DEAD?

On God's day, in God's green temple, I stand alone, and lonely-hearted, 'Neath the sombre trees, and wonder Why have all life's joys departed.

I ask the magic harp, Eolian, Responsive to this heart of mine, To breathe a song of hope and promise, In sweetest metodies divine.

I ask the drooping, modest floweret, Which droops as if with sadness torn, To smile, in love and hope, upon me; But e'en the flowerets seem to mourn. The wild bird sings in plaintive numbers Sings its sweetest songs in vain Songs once filled with Music's magic Now aggravate my heart's dull pain.

Something whispers to my spirit, Painful whispers, plaintive, pleading, Whisperings of a silent loved one, Silent 'mid my sad heart-bleeding, Mellow west winds, soft, refreshing, Murmuring as they journey on, Bring no answer when I ask them, Where's that silent loved one gone?

I ask the flowers, birds, and breezes, Ask the trees by wild winds tossed, Ask the angels hovering near me, Is my cherished, loved one lost?

I ask the clouds that move so slowly,
As if in mourning, o'er my head,
Ask and tremble, ask in terror,
Is she dying? Is she dead?

TWO PICTURES.

"Look on this picture, and then on that."
Who, when his Country's foes combin'd
To rend the Union States asunder,
Bent all his energy and mind
To rectify the Southrons' blunder?
Twas he, our gallant nominee,
A man whom e'en the Southrons' praise;
And he our President shall be,
The patriob-statesman, R. B. Hayes!

Who, when the clouds of civil war Loom'd darkly o'er our native land, When fields drench'd with fraternal gore Were visible on every hand, Who o'er his law-books daily pored, To give our Rebel foes relief; Who by the Rebels is adored? Sham Tilden, the great railroad-thief!

O Freemen, Patriots, one and all!
One of these men you must elect:
The one obey'd his Country's call;
That call the other did reject!
One is a man above all praiso—
The other far below rebuke:
Then vote for honest R. B. Hayes,
And let Sham Tilden "show his flute"!

FINANCIAL.

In spite of the unfavorable weather yesterday, there was a fair degree of activity at the banks. After the settlements of Monday, the 4th, for the previous month, the clearings were nearly the same for the remainder of the week, about $3,000,000, showing a fair increase in business. Though discount lines at the banks are gradually increasing, the rate to customers is unchanged, viz.: 8@10 per cent. The tendency of the market, especially for small favors, is towards the upper figure. On large loans, with approved collaterals, some of the leading banks will still concede 1@2 per cent from the above figures. On the street very little is doing, and rates are nominal at 6@18 per cent. per cent.

New York exchange is steady at 50 cents discount per $1,000 between banks; to enstomers, par. The market is well supplied at the figure.

A dividend of $3.50 per share has been declared on the preferred stock of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company, payable Oct. 5.

The stock market to-day was in the main irregular, but late in the afternoon became generally firm, with an advance in some shares. New Jersey Central rose from 31% to 32%, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western advanced to 79%, and closed at 78%. A dash was made against Lake Shore and Michigan Central on rumors that the ticket agents had reduced the fares, but it turned out that the reduction was only on Centennial business. Lake Shore fell off to 51%, and Michigan Central to 40%, closing at 51% and 40% respectively. St. Paul preferred declined to 65%, but closed at 65%. The market closed dull, unsettled, and feverish.
Transactions at the Stock Exchange aggregated 128, 000 shares, of which 1, 200 were Lake Shore, 16, 400 Pacific Mail, 7, 000 St. Pauls, 4, 300 Western Union, 4, 400 Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, 19, 000 New Jersey Central, and 75, 000 Michigan Central. It is regarded in itself an excellent showing considering the railroad war, yet by the reduction of operating expenses in the same was the net earnings are in excess of the previous same.

The leading produce markets were moderately active on Saturday, with a general advance in prices, some of them being quite excited. The weather was a leading cause of the rise in grain, either proximate or remote. It was again dull and murky, with threats of more rain, and the damp, atmospheric conditions of the past week are was atmospheric conditions of the past week are enderstood to have been general, and to have interfered materially with the threshing of grain, esfered materially with the threshing of grain, especially wheat and oats, so that the receipts of new grain will probably fall off very much in consequence. The trading all round was chiefly local, and mostly limited to the filling of shorts, there being less doing for shipment than usual, though a moderate demand for that purpose occurred in wheat and corn. Provisions shared in the stronger-tone, and freights were firmer. There were few new features in the dry-goods market and none of importance. Trade in most departments was fairly active, and the tenor of prices was again unqualifiedly firm. Groceries met with a liberal demand from the country trade. The attendance of buyers was not very large, but the mail-order business was of generous propor-tions, and jobbers apparently were satisfied with the amount of sales accomplished. Previous prices were fully maintained all around, and the general market presented a firm, healthy tone. In the dried-fruit market there was a lack sctivity. There was some demand for raisins, currants, and prunes but beyond that comparatively little trading was done, and values are, to a great extent, nominal. Jobbers of fish reported a quiet and nominally steady market. Butported a quiet and nominanty steady market. But-ter was again quoted active and firm. There was a fair inquiry for cheese at previous figures. In prices of oils the only change noted was an ad-vance in extra lard of 2c. Bagging, leather, paints, and colors were unchanged.

A larger fleet was offered at the lumber sale docks, and the market was fairly active for Saturday, and steady. At the yards trade was moderate, having slackened during the past week, owing to having slackened during the past week, owing to the disagreeable weather, which has had a similar effect on business in the interior. The outlook for the fall is promising. The stocks at the yards are rather large, but country dealers are believed to be carrying moderate stocks as a rule, and as soon as the weather permits a free marketing of grain, they will doubtless have a lively trade, which will soon compel them to seek the market for supplies. Prices are steady. The wool market remains firm, and tub wools are quoted better. Trade is fair, and stocks small. anticipated free receipts of new. Hides were firm, and hay, salt, and hops unchanged. Timothy seed was rather slow and easier, and other seeds in light request and steady. Green fruits were more plentiful, and in good request.

Lake freights were quiet and firm at the advance

Lake freights were quiet and firm at the advance of the previous day, at 2½c for corn, and 2½c for wheat, to Buffalo. Bail freights were quiet, without change in quotations, agents asking 20c to New York, 18c to Philadelphia, 17½c to Baitimore, and 25c to Boston, per 100 Bs, and being willing to take considerably less. Through rates by lake and rail were quoted at 9c for corn and 9½c for wheat to New York, and 10c on cars to New England points. Freight engagements were reported for 20,000 bu wheat and 175,000 bu corn.

PROVISIONS.

HOG PRODUCTS—Were in good demand, and stronger; especally mess pork, which was in urgent request from the short interest. Hogs were firm, being in rather light supply, and the general impression seemed to be that both hogs and product are likely to advance further after the recent sharp decline. The stocks here are small; with mess post nearly $5.00 per br, lard 25, 6 2½ per b, and mean 3½ per b lower than a year are. ago.

BREADSTUFFS.

FLOUR—Was more active, and strong in sympathy with wheat. There was some shipping inquiry early, but prices did not suit, and the trading was chiefly load. Sales were reported of 357 bris whiters, chiefly at $5.006.50; 775 bris spring extras, partly at $5.006.50; 775 bris spring extras, partly at $5.006.50; and 300 bris spring superfines at $3.75. The fact that corn rules strong in Engiand, in spite of very large receipts there, is generally regarded as showing that the British people are increasing their consumption of corn to such an extent as to make that country a much more important market for that grain in the future than heretofore. GENERAL MARKETS.

ALCOHOL—Was quiet and steady at $2.16.
BROOM-CORN—Dealers report a fair trade, considering the weather, and an easy feeling, due to the fact that the new crop has commenced to move, and it is thought that there will be a disposition in some sections to market it early. BUTTER—There was not much that was new to note in connection with this market. The demand continues uninterruptedly active, and, despite the heavy receipts, there is no surplus, and the market retains the firm tone that has characterized it for some weeks past. special Correspondence of The Tribune.
NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 7.—The Ocean House had its grand ball of the season on Saturday evening. Over a thousand persons were said to be present, and a pretty good idea may be got of the affair when we find Lord Churchill's, Admiral Porter's, James Gordon Bennett's, and Comm ittee of Arrangements. The dancing was in the great dining-hall, and one looking in from the outside, where strings of Chinese lanterns were suspended from the upper windows to the trees, saw a scene of veritable enchantment. Dresses that were works of art in fashion and material and subtle combination made art, and thus make a really very fine thing out of it. Let no hasty thing out of it. Let no hasty reader, now remembering my scathe of criticism upon women and clothes a few weeks ago, cry out that I am going back upon that criticism. On the contrary, I am not going back at all, for, in thus making dress a work of art, a minute observation of it on one's neighbor will no longer be a humiliating counting of cost and par rata of social status, but a duty of education, whereby we may get esthetic ideas of color and form. And I can tell Miss Two-Shoes of today, who wears per rata of social statis, our a duty of cellucation, whereby we may get esthetic ideas of color and form. And I can tell Miss Two-Shoes of to-day, who wears

HER PATCHWORK GOWN,
like Joseph's coat of many colors, and all the rest of the "rag, tag, and bob-tail" style, that her ruffles and flounces will be at a discount then. It will no longer be possible to gauge a person's purse and style by the intricacies of her costume; those intricacles which tell uneringly the fashion and high cost of the drasmaker. It will not be a matter of ingenuity, but of educated taste,
which is quite another thing from ingenuity.
This summer's fashion of putting the soft, fine unheached cottons into polonaises is an indication of art's influence, for its purely and simply the effect of color and fabric, and not in the less the high cost. Some of the pretiest arrangements of the summer-houses here indoors are produced by taste entirely, and not money.
One family in good society, such society as might strive in vain for, took a small and very commonplace house, and with their wit and taste have turned it into a most delightfully artistic home. As their star does not point westward, I may tell some of the secrets of this taste, for the good of some other woman who, sighing vainly for Persian rugs and real hardwood floors, together with the graces of drapery and knickchier woman who, aigning vainity for Persian rugs and real hardwood floors, together with the graces of drapery and knick-nactery she knows is far beyond her reach. The floors were covered with white matting, at 25 cents per yard, and rugs were not wanting to vary this sameness of surface now and then. But they did not mount up into the Persian prices. They were home-made of bits of bright labrics, cotton, wool, or silk; some made with halting-pine, and others with a hook, pulling gay odds and ends through what is called, I believe, burlaps, or coffee-bagging. These latter were really beautiful, and were arranged with such skill that they vied with the beautiful Persians. Long boxes, with a set of wire springs clasped on the strong bars, fitted crosswise like bedstead slats, and all covered with bright chints, with a set of large pillows, made a charming lounge and a comfortable bed for a vistor if the house were full.
MES. SHODDY, WITH HER CASHMERES AND DIAMONDS,

A SET OF OLD-FASHIONED FLAG-SEATED CHAIRS were rejuvenated in a way that is worth an art medal. The flags painted a delicate buff, the woodwork painted a brilliant black, and, on the broader part of the back, strips of bright cre-medal. The hags painted a deficate out, the woodwork painted a brilliant black, and, on the broader part of the back, strips of bright crelome pasted, and then varnished. I never saw such pretty chairs in a parlor before. The curtains were of coarse, plain lace, with chintz lambraguins; one old table, of pretty shape, but of deap wood, and therefore not of value or beauty in its original form, was painted black, and bordered with beautiful selections from the reach cretonne, cut out and pasted on, and varnished. There were green leaves and exquisite ones with arabesques, and in the centre a bird with long, trailing plumage. The table looked like one of those charming French boudoir tables that cost hundreds of dollars. Of the cushions, ottomans, footstools, it the custions, ottomans, footstools, it is needless to say, they were plenty, where such taste and skill reigned. "But think of the time," cried Miss Two-Shoes, with a shrick, "think of the precious time consumed in knitting and hooking and pasting and varnishing, and all the rest of the box and chintz business."

shrek, "think of the precious time consumed in knitting and hooking and pasting and varnishing, and all the rest of the box and chintz busices."

DEAR MISS TWO-SHOES, if you are one of the self-supporters who must coin your bread and butter, I have nothing to say to your argument. But you are soot. The Two-Shoes family on the feminine side neyer earned their salt. You only know how to spend other people's sarsings. And I can tell you if you want an attractive summer-house, and these hard times make it impossible for paterfamilias to give it to you on account of the cost of furnishing, the best thing in the world that you can to is to go at once into this mitting and hooking and pasting and varnishing, and the rest of the box and chintz business. The women of the family of which I speak did all this work in the winter days, and by no means neglected to read the daily papers, and thright book now and then, and to otherwise militrate their mental and social faculties. And he result is a house that is entirely charming, and yet is not too fine and valuable to leave unsured for and unwatched through the winter reason. I don't commend this furnishing to the people who really want to make paste cheat the diamond, and who think that these pretty devices I have told of is for that purpose. By so means. These pretty devices are not for the people of original beauty. And they are for the people of original beauty. And they are for the people of original beauty is the first the people of original beauty. And they are for the people of original beauty. And they are for the people of original beauty. And they are for the people of original beauty. And they are for the people of original beauty. And they are for the people of original beauty. And they are for the people of original beauty. And the steeptechases, also, hold off, and there are outside prophecies that these—especially the latter—disappointments will curtail the season; but there are no inside prophecies or outlooks of this kind. There are several parties in project, two or three weddings to come off, and some private theatricals on the tapis. WOMAN IN POLITICS.

EQUALITY FOR WOMEN.

To the Reiter of The Tribune.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—In your Sunday edition of Sept. 3, an editorial appeared under the title "Woman as a Political Purifier." I think you rate women morally very low, and come far short of giving them their just dues. The corruption of the ballot-box has, it is true, been one of the arguments presented before the people by the advocates of Woman Suffrage, and in my opinion a good argument too. Now, I do not believe that any intelligent woman who believes in the right of woman suffrage thinks that, were she allowed the right of suffrage, and mingled in the political element, casting her vote on an equality with man, that she would so thoroughly regenerate the ballot that corruption would sink into oblivion. Not by any means. But I do claim, as do scores of women (and not But I do claim, as do scores of women (and not a few men), that it would in a measure be a forcible elevating power, which is greatly need-ed. The ballot needs woman, and woman needs the ballot too. When a young man attains a cer-tain age, he casts his vote to help make the laws, and votes for that candidate whom he thinks would best represent his views on certain ideas or laws which are to govern our people. He then feels a patriotism, a strength, and freedom which he never felt before. He has a voice in the administration of our great Republic, and helps form the laws which he is expected to obey. Women are expected to obey the laws made by men to the very letter, without a dissenting voice, no matter how unjust or oppressive they may be. Now, if the ballot makes a man more of a man, then the ballot would, from the same point of reasoning, make the give her wider scope for labor, for usefulness, for power to elevate her own sex, and assist Yet the question is, Shall woman be disfranhised because she cannot purify the ballot? slavery hung so ominously over our nation, with its sin and shame, we listened to the clank of the chains that bound man's body to unceasing toli, and soul to ignorance. We saw whipping, and scourging, and traffic in men. Human beings were sold like beasts before our very eyes, in compliance to so-called just laws, and, as was claimed, in accordance with the Constitution of the United States. Ministers of the Gospel even at the North quoted Scripture to prove that the colored race were made for slavery, and had no rights which white men were bound to respect, arguing that the black man was not a man or a citizen of the United States. The ballot did not need him, nor did he need the ballot. But we know that "though the mills of God grind slow, they grind exceeding small." When Heaven itself revolted against slavery, the shackles fell, and the dark cloud sank into oblivion, never, we trust, to return. We found that the black man was a citizen and a man, and had rights like other human beings. He needs the ballot to elevate him and his race, and the ballot needs his vote too. So women are said to enjoy the protection of the mest just and magnanimons laws, though they are not citizens of the State, are not needed in the ballot, and the ballot would not be of any possible advantage to them. Now, as the bondsman has been proved a citizen, and endowed with the right of suffrage, so do I believe woman is a citizen on an equality with man; and though the walls of superstition and prejudice are high and strong they must crumble and fall. I may not live to see the emancipation of woman, you may not, but it needs no seer with prophetic vision to rouse us to the coming events of the future. We can but see that the right will prevail, and the glad tones shall yet reach Heaven that America is a free land, and woman a citizen of the United States, and man's equal.

Now, women are not angels, and men are not demons, but both partake of human nature. And yet in justice to woman I do believe that, as a whole, women are more moral slavery hung so ominously over our nation, with its sin and shame, we listened to the clank

Belkmap affair. Now, I think the reason why those intelligent and highly moral ladies arpressed the opinions they did as to the conduct of Mr. and Mrs. Belkmap, was as Col. Higginson says, because they were not sufficiently educated to the idea of the important positions of trust and responsibility imposed upon office-holders, and the nature of bribery. This is not very strange. Woman has for ages been taught to believe she was born only to receive a little education, to attend only to domestic duties, and that her highest aim should be to marry somehow, but marry, and her mission was filled for this life. But woman saw that she had rights equal with her brother man, so she has struggled and persevered to educate hersell, established schools and colleges, regardless of the shower of consumptions and colleges, regardless of t

WOMAN THE GREAT MORAL DEGENERATOR. To the Editor of The Tribune.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—In your issue of Sunday last there appeared an article, entitled "Woman as a Purifier in Politics," the animus of which was that woman, instead of being a purifier either in politics or society, was quite the re-verse, and all modern social theories based on her innate moral superiority were faisely de-duced. After mentioning several Biblical names of unpleasant notoriety, the writer proceeds:
"Secular history as little shows the purity that always goes into politics with women. It rather brings to light a special love of intrigue and management, and a disposition to resort without scruple to the most convenient instrumentalities." For examples we are referred to "Imperial and Papal Rome," the "checkered history of France," and "our own City of Washington;" and are assured that the marked appearance of woman in the political arena generally was accompanied with a culmination of evil, as though corruption had gained its lowest to this important question must be more or less conjectural; but perhaps as good a one as any is, that it took the Devil to tempt the woman, whereas anybody, even a woman, can tempt a man. Satan possessed some good qualities, among them those of good generalship. He knew that the City of Eden could be destroyed only by storming and reducing its strongest fortress himself. The rest would easily follow. Had the contrary course been pursued, and Adam been first interviewed, I can fancy what domestic discipline he would have had to undergo had he faced Mistress Eve with those poisonously-sweet apples in his hands. The record itself shows us that the Devil was quite right in judging Eve the most difficult subject of the two. We are told that she demurred, and was loth to believe him, showing true womanly reverence for sacred authority. "But of the Iruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden God hath said ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it lest ye die." Did Adam show any such delicate scruples! Not at all. He did not stop to consider within himself or to remonstrate with his wife. He simply took the fruit and ate it with no other emotion, that we know of, than those of pleasure in a change of diet, and with no thought of possible consequences until he heard the Master inquiring for him, when he came forth from his retirement and made the first address, which has been repeated and enlarged upon so many times since, on the degenerating influences of the female sex, and the too great susceptibility of the male.

MRS. HIRAM POWFRS.

MRS. HIRAM POWERS.

To the Editor of The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—I see by your last Sunday's save that Mrs. Hiram Powers is about visiting America after an absence of over 30 years.

I want to tell your readers that, during those 30 odd years in a foreign land, she has preserved the intensest American feelings, rearing her children in American customs and habits of thought, and inculcating in them the most vivid love of their country,—that country that some of them have never seen,—and excluding, with persistent, jealous care, insidious foreign influences enervating to virtue and healthful

No one that has not lived abroad can appreci ate how difficult this is. I have seen persons of six months' or a year's residence in Europe more Europeanized, in the bad sense of the term, than Mrs. Powers' children who have never seen America.

This has not been done without many sacri-This has not been done without many sacrifices. Often her children have been very lonely for want of companionship. Flitting travelers do not form a solid social circle. Still, she has resolutely excluded Italians from her home, for she did not approve of them, as a class, as husbands and wives, and, consequently, would not throw her house open to them for fear of entanglements and love affairs, since human nature will be human nature. Of course, she could not do this without meeting serious opposition within and without. No one can live in a community and resist that community without great moral courage. No mother can seclude her children within a very limited circle, totally inadequate to their social necessities, without great and persistent firmness. How well she has succeeded these facts will show: Of her six children, three sons and three daughters, two of her sons have married americans, and her eldest daughter has married an Englishman. The remaining children are still unmarried.

If Mrs. Powers resolutely kept closed doors to exclude Italians, she most hospitably opened them to her own countrymen and women. Rich or poor, well or sick, her large, warm heart gave a welcome to all, and were one ill, or were one unfortunate, her sympathies, with substantial efforts for one's comfort, were ever ready. In fact, she was a kind of universal mother to unfortunate Americans.

In the pression where I was boarding last winices. Often her children have been very lonely

In the peasion where I was boarding last winter there were three young ladies (two of them of the peasion where I was boarding last winter there were three young ladies (two of them of their condition than she came to offer them assistance, bringing with her a goodly supply of their condition than she came to offer them assistance, bringing with her a goodly supply of beef-tea and little delicacies that could not be procured in the boarding-house. Every day found one or more members of the family there to cheer and comfort them with conversation and sympathy, and every day they brought food and flowers, attentions that are appreciated even at home, but how greatly there traces in importance when one is separated from all one's friends, and when one cannot speak even to the servants, not knowing their language!

The tradition schaller of the property of the control of the girls to each other, one language in the house afforded. But, notwithstanding all the care that was given, and the mutual devotion of the girls to each other, one language hardly and prited the poor girl from the bottom of my heart. The picture of her mother's agont if she lost her only daughter constantly haunted my imagination. I felt very sorry, also, for her young companions, who were in too delicate health themselves to have the care and responsibility of an invalid upon their hands.

I had known Mrs. Powers for years. I knew that many times she had opened for she had fitted up a pleasant, sunny room in her charming villa to recive a young man dying of consumption that his last days might have the consolation of a home, so I ventured to represent to her daughter the necessities of the young girl in whom we were all so deeply interested, for I felt sure unless some change were effected she would not recover. The result was, that the next day Mrs. Powers sent her daughter to offer her home to the lonely wandarer, asking her to oome and share her house to home the home of t

During the past week Dr. John D. M. The honor conferred is no less than that of Intendent General, unattached, of the Orders of the Red Cross of Constantine, Knights of the Holy Sepulchre, and the Holy Order of St. John. He has also been advised of his enrollment amony the Grand Cross Knights of England, the highest Masonic body in the world, embracing, as it does, in its membership the most filustrious of the English nobility. THE FORESTERS. SOMETHING ABOUT THE ORDER.

Very little is known of this Order. It sprang from the Ancient Order of Foresters, and under somewhat the same circumstances as the Independent Order of Odd Fellows sprang from the Manchester Union. In England the Ancient Order of Foresters at the present time is one of the strongest benevolent socie-ties, if not the strongest, as regards numbers. It is composed of mechanics and small business men, with a few of the upper classes. Its object is to provide against misfortune, aid the sick, bury the dead, and comfort the mourners. It does a great deal of good, being protected by an act of Parliament made for the regulation of benevolent institutions. The

The new life-boat, with which the station at this point has been lately supplied, was tested for it. It was rowed out in the lake about a mile and back, there being six men in it, and it behaved splendidly. It is a self-righter, and cannot sink, being filled with compressed air. It stands very high out of the water, and there are some vessel-men who claim that it does not draw enough water to live in a severe gale, and spill the inmates into the lake. Yet these boats have been tried in England during the last few years with great success, and there is no reason why they should prove less of a success in this country.

take cigars and champagne at his expense, and finally when be had fulled the suspicious of the hardened pirate he took him across to the Canadian side and lured him to a tobacconist's store where there was a fine meerschaum on which the hackman had iong cast a covetous eye. The young man bought it and gave it to the hackman; then they drove back to the American side, where the vigilant Custom-House officials asked them if they had any contraband goods. The hackman said "No," whereupon the young man informed on him, had his hack and horses seized and confiscated, got his moiety as informer, which paid all his expenses, and left him $5.57½ ahead, then left the ruined pirate with the stern words: "Charge me $25 again for a three-hours' drive, will you?"

The other night as two young men were passing down Madison street they saw an Italian Count trying to claw a living out of the harp that once through Tara's halls its soul of music did not shed. A happy thought struck them. Said the first young man: "Say, Signor, how much'll you take for your evening?" The exile bowed and said he kissed the Signor's gracious hands, and he would take a seudo—vat you calla a tollar. "Keerect, Victor Emmanuel," replied the young man; "now you're my great Italian combination opers troupe, and you get a dollar for a series of star performances and I take the rest of the receipts at the door, comprenny, Signor'" So they went on till they came to a billiard room and the young man said, "Whos, there, Garibaldi," and ordered him to enter the billiard-room and please the ears of the assembled folks with a concourse of sweet sounds. He did so, and when he had got through passed the hat. His lessee and manager was the first person to whom he came. "Why," he exclaimed with surprise, "that's Gracoino de Rossini del Salviaierra. Bovs, I know the cuse well. He is an Italian Duke and a patriot; served with Garibaldi; had his estates confiscated; was excommunicated and hunted out by the carbonari of the Inquisition; had to come to America and can't

Chicago for years.

A MIRACULOUS CURE.

An almost miraculous cure is reported from Sheldon street, the patient being the wife of a well-to-do citizen. She has for years been alling, or thinking she was alling, and recently took to her death-bed, and kept her husband unhappy by lamenting that she was going to die. Yesterday her husband went out and got a buxom young widow, who is her particular abhorrence, to come in and look over the house. The dying woman heard him opening doors and explaining things, and lay racked with indignation and curiosity. Presently the buxom young widow departed, and the husband returned to the sick-room. No sooner had he entered than she accosted him:

"Peter Whitehead Hollingworth, what have you been doing?"

you been doing!"

you been doing!"

you been doing!"

you been doing!"

"Nothing, my love, nothing. Don't excite yourself. Be caim. Only as you were complaining that you couldn't get up and see after things, and that the house was going to wreck and ruin, I thought I'd ask Mrs. Dasher in to trouble and relieve your mind of anxiety."
"O, you did?" she murmiured with a deep inspiration.

inspiration.
"Yes, and I showed her all over the house."
"And the beds not made, and everything like a pig-sty!"
"Never mind, my love. I told her that she must excuse it, as you were sick, because you were a very good housekeeper. And she said you must be."

you must be."

"Yes, and the said that if she had her way, the'd have a new set of parlor furniture in and less vulgar wall-paper, but that some people had no taste anyway, and—— By the way, Maria, you and Mrs. Dasher are pretty much of a size, ain't you?" Then he fell into a trance that lasted for some minutes, then muttering, "Well, perhaps chey'll fit; if not, they can be made ever," departed.

When that husband went home last night he was surprised to see his dying wife up and dressed, and bossing things with a metallic ring in her voice and a glitter in her eye such as he hadn't seen for years, and when he innocently remarked, "Why, Maria, I had hardly expected to see you up again?" she said, "I know it, you bald-headed old reprobate, but I'll live to bury you yet, and if that painted Jezebel comes into this house again? I'll tear her into cotton waste and jute strings.

WHY THE MARRIAGE WAS ENOKHN OFF.

Considerable surprise has been manifested in fashionable circles over the announcement that a marriage between two handsome and wealthy young persons down Calumet avenue is off, and there is great curtosity as to the cause of the quarrel. The presents and dresses had been ordered, and the list of gueste made cut, and the affianced couple were discussing wedded biles and things one evening, when the future bride said to the prospective bridegroom:

"Hebrake."

"Nottie, lovey, of course we'll put it in The Time and the said." I know that, but what I mean is low will it read?"

"Nottie, lovey, of course we'll put it in The said, while it is a side of the prospective properties of the brides parents, by the Rev. Dr. John Feter Smith, D. D., assisted by the Rev. Peter McFlathers, A. M.,——"

"O, Herbert, my owny, will you say that he married you to me, or with me, or and me, or me to you, which?"

"I suppose we'll have to make it you and me. but it would be absurd to speak of marrying the husband, and St. Paul says so too. Besides the married you to me, or with me, or and me, or me to you, which?"

"So, Nettie,

young and yet so philantropic. The humane young man blushed, and complied, and next night at dinner-time there came a fearful tug at the bell, and the servant-girl found on the steps of that young man's boarding-house a pair of assorted twins, neatly done up, with the young man's card pinned on the parcel, while on the reverse of the card was written:

CULLY: You like bables. Here is som.
Your Friend on the Horse-Car. And that young man, though his income was ample and he was childless, did not take those twins to his heart and let them grow up to twine around his heart-strings and fill his boarding-house with infantine caresses, but just sent out for an A. D. T. Co.'s messenger and humped them up to the Asylum right lively.

FLOATERS.

MO RE MURDER. The police were excited and busy last evening in trying to ferret out what appears to be a fearful tragedy. So far as they have proceeded they have been able to ascertain only the bare facts in the case, which are as follows: Early yesterday morning the body of an old man was found on the banks of the river near the Ashland avenue bridge, south of Egan avenue.
The remains were recognized as tiffee of Michael Bradley, an old man 89 years of age, who had been boarding at the house of a Mr.
Marshall on Forty-first street, in the neighborhood of where the man was found. Although the man's death was evidently caused by a pistol-shot wound in the forehead, another under the chin, and a blow from some heavy weapon across the face, the affair appears to have created but little excitement, and, indeed, the police did not obtain any of the details until late last evening. The Coroner was duly notified, and that functionary held an inquest upon the deceased at the Morgue yesterday afternoon, but the police had no knowledge of such a proceeding. The intelligent jury, although fully cognizant of the causes of death, found a verdict that deceased came to his death from unknown causes.

who killed the man is a mystery which the police have but little chances of solving, unless something more in the case is unraveled.

At an early hour yesterday morning the bridge-tender at Van Buren street found the body of a man floating in the river. The body was taken to the Morgue by Officer Large and the Coroner notified. The inquest developed but little more than the man's identity, and a suspicion that he was foully dealt with, which was lost sight of in the verdict, "Found drowned."

was lost sight of in the verdict, Found drowned."

The name of the deceased as given in several letters in his possession was J. N. W. Wilson. At first it was supposed that the remains were those of a man by the same name. who had recently made his headquarters at Dr. Fritz's office, corner of Clark and Madison streets. But Dr. Fritz visited the Morgue at a late hour last night, and was positive that the body was not that of the Mr. Wilson whom he knew. To the best of his knowledge and belief his friend was safe and sound at his home in Philadelphia. The body is still awaiting identification at the Morgue.

GAS.

MR. BILLINGS COMING DOWN. The new Committee on the Gas Question b gan their labors yesterday afternoon. They seem determined to do something, but are not desirous of letting the public know what, until they are ready to go before the Council with their project. Aid. Throop, the Chairman, went round among the members early in the morning, and made them agree to exclude reporter from their meetings. One or two rather kicked against this arrangement at first, but soon ac-quiesced when they learned that Mr. Billings, President of the West Side Company, had some-thing to communicate which he wished to keep out of the papers. Accordingly, when the news-paper men presented themselves at the door of the Committee-room in the afternoon they were the Committee-room in the afternoon they were denied admittance. Mr. Throop, who stood sentry, informed each of the "boys" that it was Mr. Billings' express wish that the proceedings should be private, and that that gentleman's will was law as far as he was concerned. But it is one thing to hold secret meetings, and another, and more difficult, to prevent their proceedings being published. No sooner had the remorters been told that their processes was the reporters been told that their presence was undestrable than their plans were laid for getting the business, and the speeches, as well if necessary.

Mayor Heath, Corporation Counsel Anthony, Mr. Billings, and all the members of the Committee, were present. Mr. Throop opened the business by stating that he had invited Mr. Billings to attend, who would talk to the meeting generally about his rights under the contract, and incidentally touch upon the price of gas.

thereupon detailed the provisions of his contract with the city, and stated that, notwithstanding the opinion of the Corporation Counsel, he was convinced of its validity, and would, if pressed too much, have the matter decided in the courts. He was willing to grant the city the terms set forth in his recent communication to the Council, but he would see them in—darkness ere he'd budge another cent.

Several of the members tried to reason with the gas Prosident, but he maintained his ground. At length Ald McAuley suggested if he did not come to terms the city would probably abrogate the contract, and illuminate the streets with oil.

Mr. Billings could not see that the Council had the power to do this. And, another thing, if he was inclined to be stiff-necked, they could not change to 3-feet burners.

The Chairman, with reference to the oil question, said he was not sure whether they could use the money appropriated for gas for oil.

Mr. Anthony's opinion was asked upon this point. He could not see how changing to oil would vitiate the appropriation. Dillon on Corporations was pretty clear on this subject, but before giving a definite opinion he would like to consuit the New York Reports and probably the decisions in the Indiana and Michigan Supreme Courts.

Quite a general, and, at times, animated, debate ensued, in which the whole subject was thoroughly canyassed. While it was in progress Mr. Watkins, of the South Side Company, requested admission into the reom.

The Chairman met him at the door and told him the Committee were busy

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

ERNST FRUSSING.

The ineligibility of Judge Lawrence, and the declination of Frederick Mahla, necessitated the appointment of two other Inspectors for the Board of Education, and accordingly Mayor Heath sent in to the Council Friday evening the names of Ernst Prussing and the Hon. Isaac N. Arnold, and they were promptly confirmed.

A reporter called on them yesterday to learn if they would accept the position, and also to ascertain what their views are regarding the Bible in the public schools. The first one seen was Mr. Prussing, with whom the following interview was had:

"Will you accept?" said the reporter.

"Yes," was the reply.

"What are your views as to the reintroduction of the Bible?"

"My views," said Mr. Prussing, "are that we can do very well without it."

"Should the question come up, how would you vote?"

"Against it."

"Against it."

"Will you give me your reasons, briefly?"

"Certainly. I consider the Bible, at present, not proper literature for our youth, or for any man who keeps pace with the civilization of our

"You say at present. Do you think it will seer be proper literature?"
"Parts of it will be read with interest and profit, but only a few parts. Most of it will be thrown away, as it deserves to be, among the rubbish of fermer ages."

"Is there no instruction in it, we will team give some instruction—a few moral entiments; but the civilization of our age has surpassed it long ago."

"What will take its place?"

"Nothing in particular. It is not necessary that we should have just one book to take the place of another. Moral instruction generally place of another.

place of another. Moral instruction gene will take its place."
"You do not look upon the Bible, then,

"You do not look upon the block then, a moral instructor?"

"I regard it as aiming at that from the standpoint of the writers. They wrote, however, 1,800 years ago, and some of them 8,000 years; and, of course, what they say is not exactly the thing for our state of culture."

"What was good then is bad now?"

"The human race has advanced since that time, and our ideas of morality have advanced just as well as our ideas about other matters. I consider the present conglomerate—the human race—as standing on much higher ground now than is laid down in the Bible."

"You look upon it as defective and insufficient?"

"You look upon it as described with the conversation in the indefinite remark the conversation when indefinite remark the conversation should be."

With which indefinite remark the conversation ended.

was found at home in his library—one of th largest and best in the Northwest.
"Will you accept?" said the reporter.
"Yes."
"Do you stand face or back to the Bible?"
"Well," replied he, "I do not care about expressing my views now. If the question comes up, I will listen patiently to all that is said for and against its introduction, and then will be able to form a judgment."

Mr. Arnold must, therefore, be put in the non-committal class with Mr. William H

THE BANKS. HOW THEY LIKE THEIR ASSESSMENT. In banking circles, particularly among the larger national institutions, a great deal of indignation was freely expressed yesterday at the action of the County Board, which the day previous ordered a large advance, in some instances as much as 150 per cent, on the assessments as returned to the County Clerk by the Assessor. In response to the query, "What are you going to do about it?" the answer was invariably returned, "We'll fight swer was invariably returned, "We'll fight it tooth and toe-nafl, and we won't pay a nickel until we are compelled to. We are taxed to death, and we can't stand it in justice to our stockholders."

The Cashiers of two of the largest banks stated that if the county authorities persisted in their scheme of taxation, the institutions which they represent would be compelled to reduce their capital and distribute their surplus among their stockholders. Should the latter be carried into effect, there is no doubt but it would weaken the confidence of the public in their stability and produce an injurious effect on their credit. In some quarters the equalization of assessment of the two Canadian banks doing business in this city was vigorously commented upon. One of these foreign institutions claims to have a capital of $12,000,000, and in well informed financial circles it is stated that fully $1,000,000 thereof is used in its operations here. The equalized valuation is only $100,000. In the case of the other, which has a capital of $6,000,000, of which it is estimated fully three-quarters of a million are employed here, the assessment is only $33,000. The local bankers claim with a good show of reason that under this discrimination they cannot compete except at a loss. Judging from the tone of the bank officials yesterday, the South Town Collector will have up-hill work collecting any taxes from them this winter.

STILL THEY COME. UNITED STATES ROLLING-STOCK COMPANY. United States Rolling-Stock Company, has been in the city several days for the purpose of look in the city several days for the purpose of looking up a location for the new works of the

The growth of the Company has been rapid during the past two years, as it thrives on the poverty of the railroads, many of which since the panic have been unable to build their own rolling-stock. So rapid, in fact, has been the increase in the business of the Company, that the present works at Urbans are found to be entirely inadequate; hence the desire of the Company to come to Chicago.

Mr. Hodgakin states that since his arrival here he has received numerous offers of ground for the works. Some parties have proposed to donate the ground necessary. In making a se-

Mr. Hodgskin states that since his arrival here he has received numerous offers of ground for the works. Some parties have proposed to donate the ground necessary. In making a selection, however, he desires to secure a place as near the business quarter of the city as possible, and it is extremely difficult to find enough land in one spot within or near the city limits. No location has yet been decided upon. The officers of the Company are as follows: President, J. B. Hodgskin; Vice-President, William H. Guion; Treasurer and Secretary, A. Hegewisch; Master Mechanic, C. T. Jauriet. The works will employ from 250 to 300 hands.

The interior arrangements of Stewart & Co.'s new store are being fast pushed towards completion, under the supervision of Mr. Potter Palmer and Mr. John Robinson, the latter an old attache of the firm, and it is thought the store will be ready for the reception of goods by the 15th of this month; at any rate, between then and the 20th inst. As is generally known, the house will comprise the Drake, Wilder, and Rothbarth Blocks, all of which are situated en and about the corner of Wabash avenue and Washington street. Mr. Sabin B. Smith experienced some difficulty in obtaining the Drake Block, which is the one on the corner,—and, therefore, the most important,—and it was thought that its occupancy would have to be deferred till January.

The plan which is now being so speedily carried into effect is to remove all the partitions between the various stores of the three blocks, throwing the whole into one grand department, the same to be repeated on all the five stories. The interior will be painted white and counters will apread themselves all around. Three trains of goods are now on their way from New York and are expected within a few days, when they will be deposited as conveniently as may be possible.

FOUR TO FOUR.

THE COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION. The County Board of Education met in ad-journed session yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, President Kearney in the chair, and all the members present.

After the usual reading of the minutes, Mr.
O'Connell moved to proceed to the election of a permanent Chairman. The motion was carried.
Mr. O'Connell placed in nomination Mr. J. J.
Kearney.

Kearney.
Mr. Lewis nominated Mr. Robert Clark. A vote was taken with the unvarying result—to 4.
Mr. Lewis moved that Mr. Wentworth be elected Principal of the Cook Normal School for the ensuing year. Mr. Clark seconded the mo-raised the point of order that, as no permanent Chairman had been elected, the Board could not proceed to elect a Principal. Moreover, he did not consider the Board organized until a permanent Chairman had been appointed. If the Board could not decide on this, what was the use of spending time on a divided ballot? The members might as well go home and settle all difficulties there. Until a new Chairman was elected, he maintained that Mr. Kearney should hold that position.

Mr. Lewis said the Board was doing all it could to organize within 30 days, as was required by law.

Mr. Gardner asid Mr. Kearney was the real an until a new man was elected. The

Mr. Clark wanted to know why the vote was to be reconsidered.

Mr. Johnson said he saw no use for such an office as Temporary Chairman. If the vote had not been taken, Mr. Kearney would have held over until his successor was appointed. The office of Temporary Chairman was therefore superfluous. By reconsidering the vote, Mr. Kearney would be permanent Chairman until his successor was appointed.

The motion to reconsider was carried.

WENTWORTH.

Mr. Lewis renewed his motion to elect Mr. Wentworth. When the name of Mr. Lewis was called, that gentleman felt it incumbent on him to make the usual explanation of his vote in favor of Mr. Wentworth. As Mr. Lewis made his stereotyped speech, his valuable remarks are not reproduced.

Mr. Gardner also gave his reason for voting no. He never supposed the Normal School had been built for any one man—Mr. Wentworth, or Dr. Willard, or anybody else. The school should be opened with a proper man. Mr. Wentworth was not the proper man. Mr. Wentworth was not the proper man, and yet the other side virtually said, "Wentworth or nobody." To them belonged the responsibility of closing the school. In regard to the indorsement of Messars. Lewis and Harms by the County Board, Mr. Gardner said he did not think it much of an indorsement after all, when the Commissioner who made the motion to re-elect Lewis and Harms had stated that the cost of graduating 17 pupils last year was $17,000, and he believed there should be no appropriation for the ensuing year. If that was the kind of an indorsement the other side got, they were welcome to it.

Mr. Kearney said that neither Judge Law-

an indorsement the other welcome to it.

Mr. Kearney said that neither Judge Lawrence nor Washington Hesing were pledged as to the way they would vote in the Board, provided they had been elected. He made this retainment because Mr. Lewis had hinted at their vided they had been elected. He made this statement because Mr. Lewis had hinted at their being pledged to vote against Mr. Wentworth. The vote resulted as usual,—four to four,— with no changes in the composition of the two sides.

sides.

Some discussion arose on the question of employing a cheaper man than Mr. Murrhead to look after the Normal School and keep it in fepair during the interregnum. Mr. Clark represented that Mr. Mulrhead's presence was absolutely needed there to look after the boilers and the heating apparatus generally. The Board finally allowed the matter to rest where it was. ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. Gardner moved to adjourn until the first fonday in October. Mr. Clark amended the motion by moving to Mr. Clark amended the motion by moving to meet Saturday.

Mr. Plant thought these meetings were useless. If a compromise was to be made, it would be made outside the Board. To adjourn till October would give the members time to discuss the matter in the interest of harmony. Moreover, there was to be an examination of teachers in the Boardroom Saturday, and no other business could go on at that time.

Mr. Gardner did not want to go through the farce of voting down Wentworth every week.

Finally the Board settled on meeting Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. fternoon at 2 o'clock.

HARD COAL.

A REDUCTION MADE. The Coal Exchange met yesterday afternoon at the rooms corner of LaSalle and Washington streets, President Waldron in the chair. The Secretary reported the receipts of coal by lake to date as follows:

Total......190, 340 180, 303

The Secretary also reported the receipt of a telegram as follows: telegram as follows:

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 8, 1876.—A. D. Waldron, President Chicago Coal Exchange: At a meeting of the miners and shippers of coal, held here today, they ordered a reduction of 50 cents a ton on hard coal, to take place Monday morning for cash only when coal is ordered.

ROBERT LAW. only when coal is ordered.

Mr. Snydacker moved the acceptance of the report, with the understanding that there should be a reduction of 50 cents per ton.

Mr. J. H. Little offered as an amendment that the reduction be fixed at $1.

After a long discussion the original motion prevalled.

On motion of Mr. Snydacker it was decided to advertise in the Sunday papers the price of coal for cash only, as fixed by the Exchange.

Mr. Goldberg moved that the Secretary be instructed to give in such advertisement the figures as to the cost of coal to the dealers. The amendment was lost.

The Exchange then adjourned for one week.

The amendment was lost.

The Exchange then adjourned for one week.

The new scale off prices of coal, at retail, delivered to city consumers will be as follows from and after Monday: Large and small egg, $7; chestnut, $7.25; range, $7.50. Lehigh coal will be sold at an advance of $1 per ton over the above prices, it being a superior quality to that in general use.

It is not unlikely that the hard coal dealers of this city, nearly all of whom made their contracts a month ago, before the combination broke, will have a severe winter of it, unless their Eastern brethren let up on them.

THE MOODY TABERNACLE.

ghe structure vairely under way.

Nearly four weeks age an army of workmen began breaking ground at the corner of Monroe and Franklin streets, preparatory to the erection of a huge tabernacle, which will be used by Moody and Sankey next month. The first stone was laid three weeks ago last Monday, and yesterday the work of putting in the foundation walls was nearly completed. On the east side the brick wall for the basement and first story is almost all in place, and the heavy iron work for the first story front is nearly finished. Two of the large galleries are in place. They are 40 feet wide, and will seat nearly 1,000 persons each. Standing at a point where the speaker's platform is to be located, some idea of the immensity of the place can be had. The main audience-room will be in the basement, and the galleries and inquiry-rooms on the first floor. The three galleries will seat 3,000 persons comfortably, while 5,000 will take up most of the main floor; 10,000 persons can get in without much crowding. The building, which has so far sprung up like Aladdin's palace, or Jonah's gourd, or something else, will be ready for the great revivalists by the 1st of October, provided it doesn't rain every day. Some people have the idea that the structure is only temporary, and that it will be torn down after Mr. Moody has done with it, but such is not the fact. The building is intended for a block of stores, five stories in beight, with cut-stone fronts. The front of the galleries will be raised to level with the back, and thus form part of the floor of the second story. There is no danger of anything giving away when the place is crowded, as everything is built in the most substantial manner. The galleries will support five times the weight they are intended for. The roof will be 44 feet from the floor of the main audience-room will be reached by two flights, of stairs, each 15 feet in width, located on Motiroe street. The galleries will be reached by a short but wide flight of stairs from Morroe THE MOODY TABERNACLE. THE STRUCTURE PAIRLY UNDER WAY.

GRAND CONTEST.

THE RIVAL BAGGAGE-SMASHERS.

A grand contest will shortly take place between McElwain, train baggageman, and Williamson, depot baggageman at Central Depot. The Chicago Trunk-Dealers-Mutual-Benefit-and-Encouragement—to-Railroad-Men-Association have offered an elegant silver vase (gold-lined) to be awarded to the winner. The vase is a marvel of workmanship, and was manufactured expressly for the purpose by a prominent State street firm, who will exhibit it in their show-window during the remainder of the week, that all may have an opportunity of inspecting its wonderful beauties. Its base is a massive block of silver, inscribed:

The C. T. D. M. B. and E. R. M. Asso.

To The Champton Baggageman

Of Chicago.

The top of the base is ingentously paved with trunk-lids, hat-boxes, etc., done in black enamel. This design is very appropriate indeed. Standing on this carpeting is the figure of a tail, athletic-looking mas, wearing the regulation cap and badge, holding above his head, balanced in one hand, an immense Saratoga trunk, with the hid laying beside him. In his left hand he holds a lantern and a ring of checks, three out of every five mismatched. The figure is in a perfectly natural posture, one foot resting on a grip-sack, which shows momentary signs of collapsing. The inside of the trunk is arranged with receptacles for holding flowers, and is gotten up with remarkable fidelity. The indentations, bruises, etc., are counterfeited with wonderful precision, as are also the hotel and baggage express labels. The vase is valued at $1,500, THE RIVAL BAGGAGE-SMASHERS.

Williamson gives McElwain the odds of three valises, one hat-box, and a russet trunk. Experts shake their heads gravely at the idea of odds being given on either side, but Williamson offered them and they were at once accepted.

and will prove a tough morsel for his opponent.

Williamson is the heavier man of the two, and when he was train baggageman had the reputation of being unexcelled by any man running out of Dubuque.

The judges, referee, timekeeper, etc., have not been fully decided on yet. They will probably be as follows: Williamson's judges—Stilson and Quinlan: McElwain's judges—Procter and Fisk; timekeeper—Hawkes. An attempt has been made to induce John Swaddling, of Aurora, te act as referee, and its to be hoped he will accept the position. The Trunk-Dealers' Association will attend in a body, and invitations have been issued to a large number of prominent railroad-men, who will no doubt be present. Pools are selling 100 to 90 on Williamson, and a close contest may be looked fe

NO MONEY.

AND SO THEY STAY IN. Yesterday was a quiet day with the temporary residents in the County Building, third-story, Michigan-street front. They were usually cheerful, and whiled away their time, as is their wont, in meditation, prayer, and card-playing. Panlman's absence seemed scarcely noticeable Panlman's absence seemed scarcely noticeable to them, but when his name was mentioned they appeared to be glad he had been released, and wondered whose turn would come next. Nothing new happened with regard to the pardon business, nor do the rest of the three-months men seem any nearer liberty than they did yesterday. It will be remembered that when they were committed Judge Drummond decided that they must remain in duress until their fines were paid. Such a decision would seem to be in opposition to a provision of the statutes which says, in effect, that if a man is unable to pay his fine at the expiration of his time, and makes oath to that effect, he shall be allowed his freedom. The three-months men haven't any money, their friends are not coming forward, and none of them seem to be very hopeful that they will come up and help them. And thus the case stands at present.

Levi Eisendrath, a whisky man, imprisoned for running his establishment without the necessary license, was released from jail yestarday morning.

THE CITY-HALL.

Water-rents yesterday were $1,768. License receipts yesterday were but $400. The school teachers joyfully drew $63,000 from the public fund yesterday.

The Committee on Harbors and Bridges is alled to meet Monday at 3 p. m. in the City Clerk's office.

County-Treasurer Huck sent over to the City Treasurer yesterday $150,000, all of which will. end to help matters along. The sign-wreckers continued work yesterday ash avenue and State street. There are met yesternay atternoon. Indee of the Committee were present and looked at the dranghts of a patent burner ewned by R. L. Walker, of Boston. Mr. Walker is the patentee, and desires that his invention be allowed to have a comparative test with the others. The Cammittee is required to make a report to the Council to-morrow night. It is already decided that the invention of Marlow & McVicker, of Milwaukee, is one of the two to be tested immediately in the Water-Works. The other invention will be selected before the Council meeting Monday afternoon.

The Judiciary Committee consulted yesterday with Corporation-Counsel Anthony about the reduction of 20 per cent in the salaries of the Law Department, and, after a great deal of talk, came to the conclusion that, since the Council had ordered the reduction, Mr. Anthony once told the writer that under no consideration would be submit to the reduction even of one cent in the amount of his salary. City-Attorney Tuthfil has said the same thing. The Counsel can reduce Mr. Anthony's salary, but Mr. Tuthfil's is fixed by law, and cannot be changed. Should these two gentlemen refuse to submit to a decrease in compensation, the burden must necessarily fall upon the employes of the Department, and their proportion of reduction would be about 60 per cent, which, of course, they would not put up with, nor could any one be found to accept any of the positions for the amount of pay. The Council is much criticised for its action, which is regarded as being made without sufficient thought. Ald. Thompson, who was one of the prime movers to have the lawyers' salaries reduced, said yesterday that not a lawyer in the city received enough pay for his work.

WANTED IN PEORIA.

Detective Jackson, of Peoria, arrived in toway yesterday morning, and, after procuring necessary warrants and the assistance of Officer Costello, pounced down upon a crib at No. 290 West Kinzie street, where were captured Rollin Paul, his wife Maggie, and his step-daughter Minnis Deam. The trio are wanted in Peoris for the murder of a young man named Charles Pfeiffer, who arrived in that city two years ago from St. Paul. The young man became acquainted and kept company with Mrs. Paul, until one day his body was found in the river. The inquest showed that death had been caused by a blow from a sand-bag, or some similar implement, and suspicion attached first to the Paul family and then to a man named McNally, who was missing from the city soon after the occurrence. Recently sie Nally was captured, and at once squealed upon the Pauls, but they evaded capture until yesterday. The Detective claims to have a sure case against them, but is reticent as to his proof. The parties bear themselves so easily and coolly that the Chicago officers have little belief of their guilt.

They will be sent on to Peoria Monday for examination. They will be sent on to Peoria Monday for en-

Company H of the First Regiment engaged the Hyde Park House parlors for Wednesday evening, but, as there has not been a pleasant day since Monday, they have not yet put in an appearance.

To-morrow morning the village police are to make a grand raid upon the saloons which have not paid their licenses. These delinquent rumsellers were duly notified that their payments were due, and their independence of the village authorities has been borne with long enough. The police are on the war-path, and will not return without game. The culprits will gain nothing by their delay, as they will be liberally fined as well as licensed. The feasibility of organizing a literary society is just now agitating the minds of a number of the citizens of this place. There is unquestionably sufficient talent here to compete with any of the surrounding suburbs. The names of Prof. Eberhart, L. C. Collins, Jr., and Mr. Anthony have been mentioned as the proper persons to take the matter in hand. It is hoped that these gentlemen will consider the wishes of their many friends and make a move in that direction at once.

A church trial is the latest novelty here. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Davenson are the guilty ones. The scandal, however, is not of very haze dimensions, the charge being that they have habitually absented themselves from the regular selvices of the M. E. Church, of which they are members. In some cases which might be named, it would be safe to affirm that a plea of justification would be good.

TWILIGHT-MUSINGS.

I have wandered through dusty streets to-day, 'Neath a burning sant's force glare; New how sweet to lie 'heath a twilight-sky, And drink in this country-air, And my lips, the while, wreathe in many a smile, As I sing to the grass and clover The roft refrain of a joyous strain That I murmur over and over! O soft, green grass! O blue-eyed grass, Where the sunbeams dance and quivet, I fain would stay all Life's weary day, And lie on thy lap by the river.

The lilies lie white as glittering snow, Where the river is slichtly flowing; And I lie and dream 'neath the moon's pale beams, While the night-stars soft are glowing; I dream I'm a child in this wood so wild, And sing, as a child can sing. That the distant echoes ring.

O river so calm, with breath of belim! How glad like the lilies I'd lie
On thy heaving breast, and find sweet rest, While I gaze on the starlit sky.

But I know full well that, no more a child, I must go my way in life.

'Neath the sun's herce glare, or 'mid wintry air, To mingle in Life's rade etrife.
I shall sadly long for the river's song, And the song of the murmuring clover, And seem to hear etill full and clear The words that I than sans over.
O river so feet, and grass so sweet!

Again back to my toll I must go;
But, when tolls shall cease, be mine the peace That reigns in thy locam low!

many will be anxious to see a sketch bearing on the present cause of local griefs. It is to be hoped that the managers have not ventured to make up a catching title for some old farce. Swindles of this nature have been practiced somewhat too freely in the past, so that a discerning patron of minstrel entertainments has been heard to inquire whether the man who wrote all those old farces is dead.

HOOLEY'S MINISTRES will remain here this week, although John Hart and Billy Rice, with efficient backing, will make a fiving trip to Milwaukee backing, will make a flying trip to Milwaukee for one week. Frank Moran will supply Rice's place on the end. Charles Gardner, the German comic actor, will make his first appearance. The Ainsleys, song-and-dance men, are also announced. The performances last week had a fair average of merit, although the management had the bad taste to present as an afterpiece the old business of the darkey taking the place of a tobacconist's sign. The same piece has been given at another place of amusement in this city within a month, and it was old when Fort Sumter was fired upon. Mr. Fayette Welch's musical performance, consisting of tunes on tin cans of various patterns, is tame and bad. The management have made a mistake in retaining it for this week, and also in putting on the old afterpiece, "The O'Gradys at Rehearsal," which Rickey and Barney did originally in this city, and which was played at the Adelphi week before last by Messrs. Carroll and McCarthy. It is no wonder the people do not care to attend minstrel-performances, when they have a tolerable assurance that there is nothing new to see at any of them.

An unusually strong and long variety bill is offered at the Adelphi this week. The Phoites, offered at the Adelphi this week. The Phottes, gymnastic dancers; the Pascal Sisters, who have just had a success in San Francisco, and who represent a certain school of opera-bouffe acting; Goss and Fox, negro-minstrel song-and-dance actors; Dollie Lee, the vocalist; Miss Rose De Grey, a dancer; Cincinnatus, a negro-comediar; La Petite Rose, an infant phenomenon; James Mace and Steve Taylor, the exponents of the manly art; the dramatic company,—all these and many more attractions are offered in the bill. "The Black Crook" is announced for production at the Adelphi at an early date. There is reason to believe that the spectacle will be given with adequate appointments in the way of ballet and scenery.

NOTES AND ANNOUNCEMENTS. John T. Raymond will appear in his well-known play of "Col Sellers" at McVicker's Theatre this week.

A local drama entitled "The Poor and Proud of/Chicago" is amounced for representation at the Museum this week every night and Wednesday and Saturday matinees. It is "The Streets of New York" in disguise. At the other matinees, the programme will be "The Snow-Bird," followed by "Nan, the Good-for-Nothing." Slayton's Lyceum Bureau, recently established in Chicago, controls the services in the West of such lecturers as James T. Fields, Robert Collyer, David Dougherty, William Bross, David Swing, Susan B. Anthony, and J. Essias Warren. The Bureau may be addressed at No. 123 LaSalle street, Chicago. A pamphlet containing all necessary information in regard to the lecturers and the topics on which they propose to speak can be obtained an application.

MUSIC. AT HOME.

THE COMING SEASON. having direct reference to the musical season of 1876-7 in Chicago, there is not wanting signs at home giving evidence of forthcoming activity. Nearly all the musicians have returned from their summer vacations, and the most of them always prompt and enterprising, has commenced the season with a rush of memberships the like of wnich has never been known before in the history of any musical society in the United States. On Monday evening last, the first meeting of the Club since its vacation, the names of 1,200 people were handed in who had made application for associate membership, and were elected. Other applications have since been made, and as each of those elected holds a ticket admitting a gentleman and two ladies, it will be seen that the Club has already secured an audi-ence of about 4,000 people. The rush still con-tinues, and the managers of the Club, overcome with this sudden "embarassment of riches," are now contemplating, as their only avenue of escape, the necessity of duplicating their concerts. Their membership is already far beyond the capacity of any hall in the city. This result is a splendid tribute to the popularity of this old and favorite organization, and speaks eloquently also of the esteem in which its conductor, Mr. Tomlina, is held by the musical people of the city. Some beautiful programmes have been underlined both for the male and female choruses, and for the mixed chorus, of which we shall speak hereafter. We may announce at present that Ambroise Thomas' Vocal Symphony will be given at the first concert. This fine work, it will be remembered, riches," are now contemplating, as

In this manner the Americans hear the best passages of "Tannhuser."

THE HOOK ORGAN.
We understand that parties in this city are negotiating to secure the great Hook organ at the Centennial Exhibition for Chicago. It is most sincerely hoped that the negotiations may be successful. If we cannot have an orchestra, let us at least have an organ that may be avail let us at least have an organ that may be available for festival purposes. The New York Evening Post, in noticing the musical department of the Exhibition, says of this instrument:

The instrument consists of a great organ designed with a view to fill the vast nave of the building, and a corresponding pedal organ, as a foundation or base to this great superstructure. There is also a swell organ characterized by brilliancy, a choir organ remarkable for sweetness, and a sole organ consisting of a stentorphon and atuba mirabilis, the latter being a stop which effectively indicates the entry of the trombones and other heavy brass pieces in the performance of orchestral works on this powerful instrument. There are in all 47 sounding stops displayed on the four manuals and pedals, 21 mechanical devices for their various combinations, a pedal to increase or diminish the power of the tone of the swell organ, and another by which the stops may be drawn in or out, one by one, and thus the softest whisper of the viola in the swell organ may receive reinforcements until the full power of the instrument is attained. The organ is well designed, as far as regards the selection of stops; for instead of being made up in a great measure of fancy sold stops, its foundation work is particularly solid; and therefore, when none of the fute and reed and instrument is attained. The organ is well designe as far as regards the selection of stops; for insteo of being made up in a great measure of fancy so stops, its foundation work is particularly soll and therefore, when none of the flute and reed a other stops representing brass orchestral instruents are used, the tone is strong, noble, and di nifled; and sithough heavy and firm as a pyrami is yet not delicient in certain characteristics whi impart also a kind of life and animation to it. Es note is compounded of foundation tones, which though strong, do not absorb to greatly the soun of the pipes adding designedly the overtones, at these latter again are not so strong and shrill as detract from the influence of the former.

The Burlington Hawkey is thus muddled:
What we want to know about this tetralogy, Wagner's art-work, is, if the Walkure who bears such a prominent part where the Nibelungen gets the Tarmhelm on the Gotterdammening and Brunnhilde kills the Duke, when Wotan discovers that Siggfried if we catch the rat is the uncle of Siggings, the man who played it on Hunding by swallowing the Faffner of Walnalla while Alberick hold his head, and Frucks wattles the Mine with the aword Nothung—all this we can understand per-

The San Francisco Chronicle says: "Signor De Vivo, Di Murska's manager, proposes to have an opera season here in the fall. His artists at present are Di Murska, Rosinsti (tenor) and Susini (basso). Mr. Tagliapietra will probably join the troupe as baritone, and the entire will be under the direction of John Hill. Mr. De Vivo goes East this week to engage a contrait o and tenor, and the season may be expected to commence about October or No-with a few concerts and oratorios."

A Musical Festival, under the auspices of the Women's Centennial Committee, will be held in Philadelphia during the latter part of September, and will be given by Theodore Thomas' Orchestra and the Centennial Chorus. The programmes will include the "Inauguration March," "Cantata," "Hymn," and choruses, and an arrangement of national airs. There will also be a Mozart, a Beethoven, and a Wagner night, after the plan of those given here by Mr. Thomas last summer. Among other things, the March and Chorus from Beethoven's "Ruins of Athens" are promised, and there are to be vocal solos and plano concertos, possibly Bach's "Triple Concerto." The performances number two matinees and eight concerts (the former to be "popular" (f) in character), the first falling on Wednesday, Sept. 20. Mr. Thomas has been in Philadelphis for some time, training the chorus, which is the same that sang at the opening of the Exhibition.

One of the most singular marriages of the year was consummated in this city on Monday morning, and the bride and bridegroom are now enjoying the sweets of the Saratoga waters. The gentleman was of the ripe age of 62, and the bride a blushing widow of 28, but it was not in this that the singularity of the marriage consisted. The newly-made husband has been a widower for 30 years, and is the father of two grown daughters, both married and the mothers of a brood of children. ELIOT'S BIBLE.

THE COPT AT THE CENTENNIAL.

Apacial Correspondence of The Trouse.

PHILDERIPHIA, Sept. 7.—Among other ancient papers and documents from the archives of the nation exhibited in the building erected by the United States Government, "Centennia" grounds, is a section of Eliot's famous Indian Bible, the first Bible in any language printed in America, and until within a few years the only tunislation of the Gospels into the dialect of North American Indians. There it is, shut out from the fingers but not the eyes of the curious, a few pages of coffee-colored paper bearing rude imprints of ruder types, a monument to one may send it an almost thankless philanthropy.

John Eliot was a minister of the Gospel to the hardy and pious settlers of New England. He was born in England, but migrated to America in 1631, being them 37 years of age. After his arrival in Boston he was engaged as "Teacher of the Church" in Roxbury, in which exactly he served many years. By the adoption to his family of an old Indian who had by long residence among the whites attained the English language without forgetting his own disket, Mr. Eliot was enabled to soon acquire a pair use of the Massachusetts language, the served many years. ine most commonly spoken by the "seventeen in twenty tribes within the limits of the English planters."

In October, 1646, he began to preach to the Indians, and continued his labors with such success as to have been given the title of "Apostle to the Indians." His first sermon was from Ezekiel, xxxvii., 9, and his mode of worship very simple: After a short prayer he rehearsed and explained the Ten Commandments. He then described the character of Christ; told the wondering savages of the manser in which He appeared on earth, and of His labors and persecutions and sacrifices here; he had them that He would come again to judgment, when the wicked should be punished and the good rewarded. He, in short, gave a brief and simple outline of the Christian theory of listory, of life, and of salvation, and after he had concluded invited the Indians to ask such questions as occurred to their minds. One asked immediately whether Jesus Christ could deterstand prayer is the Indian language. And whether Englishmene were so ignorant of Jesus Christ as themselves. One wondered how the world became full of people if they were once all drowned. Some of the questions exhibited not a little subtlety in the savages, and warned the Rev. Mr. Eliot of the labor which lay before him. One asked whether, if the child be good, and the parent not, God will be offended with the child, because God saith in the Second Commandment that ne visits the iniquities of the lather upon the children.

A paper printed in the report of the Massawere equally ignorant with himself. He described a lattice, however, as a frame-work, netting, or wicker, when one of the Indians grunted knowingly, and gave the philologist an ordinary, though barbarous, word as the Massachusetts for lattice. Some years after, when the "Apostle" had learned their dialect more thoroughly and correctly, he is said to have laughed outright upon discovering that the stupid savage had given him the true term for eel-pot,—"The mother of Sisera looked out at the window and cried through the eel-pot."

Of the original edition of the "Up-Biblum God," not more than 15 intact copies are known to be preserved in the United States, and a still smaller number in Great Britain. A perfect copy is in the possession of the Philadelphia City Library Company. A copy was sold in New York in 1868 for $1,130, the highest price ever paid for a single printed book in this country.

On the above-named day this Committee, with and the hearers would not be found lacking in understanding.

By experience he did not so much mean a knowledge of the experience of others, which was objective, and a good thing in its place, but a subjective experience in one's own life. Only as one had Christ in one's own heart would one be able successfully to preach Him to others, and only as a man was impressed with his own sinfulness could he turn others from the error of their ways. If you wish to draw from the well of human experience, examine your own conscience, for the water in that bucket is a fair sample of all the rest.

After a closing prayer by Prof. Fisk, of the Congregational Seminary, the audience dispersed to examine and admire the recently-resitted building.

THE CRUCIFIXION. DID THE JEWS CRUCIFY JESUS?

The New York Jewish Messenger has an article on the above subject, translated from the Pfuel-zischen Kurier, from which the following ex-tion was formed by the election of a Board of Trustees. To this Society Mr. Paul Cornel deceded Lot No. 4 and one-half of No. 8, in Block 18, together with the Hyde Park Chapel, which stood thereon. The chapel now became the property of the First Presbyterian Church and Society of Hyde First Presbyterian Church was organized. Mr. Hamilson B. Bogue, Secretary of the present Village Board of Trustees, and who had been previously elected, was duly ordained and installed as a ruling Eider May Society.

The Rev. Mr. Beach remained in connection with the church during two years, when he resigned, and the congregation was left without a shepher for y year and a half. Services were being to the church was the Rev. Bradford Y. Averill, who was called July 1, 1865, and parpeture uniformly on Sunday morning, and parpeture uniformly on Sunday morning, and parpeture uniformly on Sunday morning, and parpeture with ministerial functions in the following autumn. During his brief but devoted labors, the chapel was enlarged one-third its original size, the church grew in spiritual life and efficiency, and the eldership was again enlarged by the election of Mr. Charles A. Norton, since deceased.

After ton months' service Mr. Averill's health became impaired, and he was granted an indefinite respite, in hope that he might soon recover; but this hope was not to be realized, for after a lingering liness it pleased God to transfer him to Heaven, July 12, 1867.

In September succeeding, the Rev. David S. Johnson was called to the pastorate, and installed on the 7th of October. This earnest and beneficent. Mr. Claudius B. Nolson, formerly an Elder in the Frast Presbyterian Church of Chicago, was made an Elder in the Frast Presbyterian Church of Chicago, was made an Elder in the Frast Presbyterian Church of Chicago, was made an Elder in the Frast Presbyterian Church of Chicago, was made an Elder in t peace about the right of the Bishops of the Reformed Episcopal Church to their title and position. It will do no good for anybody in the former Church to refuse to recognize the validity of the orders of these Bishops of the latter Church. The highest high-churchman must, and does, admit their validity, though from his stand-point they are irregular.

Archbishop Kenrick thus lays down the law of the Roman Catholic Church:

Were a Catholic Bishop to apostatise from the faith, and confer orders on his partisans in error, his apostacy or heresy would not invalidate the act, although it would render it unlawful.

If a clergyman who has been suspended from the exercise of his ministry continues to perform official acts, these would, in most instances, be valid. And hence the Catholic Church regards all ordinations that are made in the sects separated from hercommunion as unlawful; but she considers only those invalid in which either the ordaining prelate was not himself consecrated, or in which he am ployed a defective form, or in which he had no intention of performing a sacred rite.

The Archbishop endeavors to prove that in every essential particular the Anglican orders are both unlawful and invalid, and hence the persistent refusal of the Church of Rome to recognize the Protestant Episcopal sect.

TYNDALL AND MARTINEAU.

TYNDALL AND MARTINEAU.

OR SOTENCE AND RELIGION.

To the Editor of The Tribune.

CRICAGO, Sept. 9.—The criticisms which have recently appeared in the daily press, of the controversy between Prof. Tyndall and Mr. Martineau, seem to incline so much to the latter, or religious side, that I believe more may be said without endangering the truth. Probably, in this most important of all subjects, the more inquiry we have, the more truth we shall get.

It is said the most that Tyndall has done is to assert the sufficiency of matter as a creative principle. It will be found, on a close examination of Tyndall's works, that he has made no assertion which he has not proved. On the other hand, the pretensions of the Church, from the time of her persecutions of Galileo down to the present, are not sustained by demonstrative evidence.

With the exception of the moral maxims, which are not necessarily a part of any creed, but which are taught and practiced in religious as in other social organizations, the basic principles of the Christian religion, after all its reformations, are directly opposed to human reason. The story of the Immaculate Conception and of the Vicarious Atonement, from the lips of a personage he has been taught from child-hood to regard and perhaps reverence, is, without doubt, a comforting assurance to the dying believer; but, examined by the unbiased judgment of man,—tried by the same rules with which we try anything else,—we find only tradition.

Prof. Tyndall's explanation of the phenomena of life is demonstrable, and its universality is evident. Wherever you find the conditions favorable, there will you find life in some form. If I ask a Sunday-school pupil to explain the formation of the apple or the development of an oak, he will reply at once, without even a thought of an accorn, "God made them." He gives that answer; that is, I remember being taught the definition of Faith as "The substance of things unseen." I had unlimited confidence in my teacher and accepted it, and, for some vears after, when population is of a more settled character.

The average ministerial age of 171 Congregational clergymen in Manne is 19 years. Dr. Pond, of Bangor, has been preaching 61 years, and several others have been in the pulpit more than 50 years. New England seems to be favored with more long pastorates than any other section of the country,—perhaps because its population is of a more settled character.

The Baptists of Nova Scotia, N. B., and Prince Edward's Island held their annual Convention Aug. 38. The Convention has decided against the proposed erection of a grand University at Halifax by the union of all the denominational schools of the Provinces. It has resolved to continue Acadis College, and to raise $100,000 for it. The Baptists are the only denomination opposing the University scheme.

A colored orator at a recent camp-meeting declared that he never would sell his birthright for a nest of partridges. His allusion was to the sale which Esau made of his for pottage. Another remarked in his sermon: "I know dat de good Lord do care for de leastest ob de flock as well as de mos' giganticuss, for me an' my ole woman hab jest emerged from a most disastrous state ob health, an' are now enjoyin' a series of convalorescence."

rous state on health, an are how enjoyin's series of convalorescence."

The Presbyteries of the Presbyterian Church in the North will before long begin to vote upon the overtures in relation to the basis of representation sent down to them by the General Assembly. The first overture substitutes 50 ministers for 24 as the basis. The second provides one representative for every 20 ministers in a Presbytery. The adoption of the second plan would, it is said, reduce the number of ministers of the General Assembly to about 300.

The ladies will be glad to know that in correcting the text of the New Testament one of the apparently uncomplimentary, or, at least, unchivalrous, expressions of St. Paul, interpolated or corrupted by an early ascetic, has been given a reading more in keeping with the doctrine of the equality of the sexes. The passage is in First Corinthians, vil., 3. In the authorized version it reads:

Let the husband render unto the wife due benevolence.

But the revision, rejecting this narrow and Oriental reading, renders it

Let the husband render unto his wife her due.

Which is much more Christian and courteous.

Which is much more Christian and courteeus.

If the Southern Churchman is right, some of the Episcopal churches in South Carolins are in a bad way. That paper intimates that some of them are built and maintained by the aid of such ungodly devices as horse-races, balls, and theatres; and it suggests that if churches are built and maintained by such means the best thing that can happen to them is to be swallowed up by earthquakes. The remedy which the Southern Churchman suggests for this churchly evil is certainly a radical one—somewhat worse, indeed, than the disease. The danger would be that the earthquake which would thus swallow an Episcopal church which lived on horse-races might also swallow its Presbyterian neighbor which had never taken anything stronger than pincushion fairs; or the Methodist church around the corner, whose members supported it by contributions of the terms and the life.

The "Sacred Penitentiary" at Rome announces that major excommunication has been pronounced against all members, adherents,

Old Dr. Tyng is 85 years of age, but he is as hearty as many men at 50, and has no idea of entirely retiring from active work, although he has an able assistant Rector. It is announced that he will to-day personally conduct the services at 8t. George's Church, which will be open both morning and afternoon. The church has been closed for several weeks, and the Doctor has been taking his customary rest at his country home in Irvington-on-the-Hudson.

BREVITIES.

A London correspondent has the following:

"Dr. Temple is a Bishop. This fact in itself is not exactly reprehensible. Dr. Temple says he has no knowledge of music; there aiready dawns some suspicion. The consequences, however, came upon him terribly. There was in the church of the Mission School House at Brixham full choral service. The Bishop did what he called singing; presently he felt an acute pain in his ribs, and, turning round, he found the most irreverent elbow of a sacrilegious saflor running through his side, and next to his ear words were whispered, 'B—you, guv'nor, you are a howing out of tune!' I say this sailor ought to be medaled."

than Homes---Lake View-York and Trisco Affairs.

THE LOAN MARKET IS UNCHANGED.

The plentiful, and the demand is light.

The gures for the past week show a fair averance of the times, but a very small proportion actual loans. Trades and the securing of the indebtedness comprised the major part and the week's transactions. There is a better in real-estate circles. Accompanying here crops out a weakening with regard to the of interest, as though agents had at a become convinced that Chicago real-security was improving, and that incuts in that direction might be made at 7 or 7% per cent.

Agents are necessarily cautious, and perin made at 7 or 7½ per cent. In agents are necessarily cautious, and perse they may be pardoned for not entertaining he an exalted view of the future of Chicago as entertained by other and distant parties. The session is a communicated as a stiffening to real-estate crests. If real estate is in demand, prices is be better, and security will be safer; and, as indications point this way, the capitalist and ent argue that no investment during the esent dull times can be safer or more oftable than loans on real property, ence there is some hesitation in sticking to the dhigh rates. It must not be lost ght of by those who contemplate borrowing as an improvement in business generally must sult in withdrawing a large amount from the apply of loansble funds, in which case a rise in acrest would follow. Now is the time to borrow. The dull times have affected the country enerally, and Eastern cities particularly, but wen at the East the impression is strong that re are on the eve of better days. What then shall be said of Chicago? A city, which all eknowledge, has been but little affected in comarison with the prevalent dulness of other dites, and which is about to enter upon a new areer.

SUBURBAN.

An enthusiastic correspondent at Lake View asks the insertion of the following:

To the Editor of The Tribune.

Lake View, Sept. 6.—Very frequently your reporters are writing up the Bridgeport stenches, and the result of explorations of committees in that direction, from which it would seem the residents of the South Side are suffering terribly at their noetrils. There is a remedy for many who are only renting; let them emigrate to the North Side; get to Lake View, where the atmosphere is always fresh and wholesome; quicker than on the South Side; no bob-tail cars; communication with the city by street cars; three and one-half miles from Madison street to Diversey street in 40 minutes; cars running all night to Fullerton avenue; good society, good schools, churches, etc., and more coming. For those owning buggies the drive to and from on the Lincoln Park and lake-shore is a real treat. Lots at Lake View are very cheap. A proposition has been made to the North Side City Railroad Company to extend their two lines—the city-limits and the Lincoln avenue, which will greatly accommodate the large population already there and the more to come. Your regular correspondent at Lake View is too modest to touch on these rnd kindred topics. He is too full of the good times the folks there have, but he should talk plain to the sufferers of the South Side, and, while showing up the advantages of the North Side, invite them to locate with us and share our good times.

one of our enterprising merchants, has purchased land in Clarendon Hills, with the intention of erecting a fine residence next spring. Mr. Boyd evidently appreciates fine scenery and high land, and in selecting this site for a home has shown his good judgment and appreciation of the heautiful.

OUTSIDE.

The Herald of the 7th says: The Herald of the 7th says:

A recent report from the Department of Buildings shows that the estimated cost of new buildings erected in this city in 1870 was, in round numbers, $38,600,000; in 1871, $37,500,000; and in 1875, only $18,200,000. This is a good illustration of the depressed condition of business, and explains the scarcity of labor. Twenty million dollars more was expended on labor and materials in 1870 and in 1871 than in 1875. Real estate has been so heavily loaded with taxation and so paralyzed by the shrinkage of values and the feneral depression that it has been impossible to take advantage of the decreased cost of building. Yet the city taxation will be as heavy next year as it is this year.

The Real Estate Circular says:

Two hundred and seventy real estate sales were made in Angust; they amounted to $1,244,298. Owing to the scarcity of large sales, either of business or residence property, the total list of transfers for last month was comparatively small. The fall business has commenced, however, and gives promise that within a month or so much greater activity will characterize the real-estate market. Prices everywhere are a high, or even higher, than they were in the opening months of the year, when sales were extremely active. A general reduction of even 5 per cent on current prices would have a most important effect in increasing sales, but owners will not come down a dollar. The only visible tendency downward is for large and expensive residence properties. There is a good deal of that class of property for sale, owing mostly to the depressed condition of stocks. We do not wonder that buyers hold out for a reduction, especially in the price of business properties, for it cannot be denied, and we have always affirmed for the past two years or so, that the price of business properties has been unreasonably high. Medium-priced lots, and houses and lots in good locations, inside of Devisadero street on the west, and of Twentieth street on the south, are in fair demand, and when the price is anyway reasonable, a sale can be at once effected. Property below Market street is not much sought after; while for lots on the Potrero, at South San Francisco and south of Twenty-sixth-vieret, Musionward, there is next to no inquiry. There is increased inquiry for 50-varas in the vicinity of the park; this demand is not fully supplied though, owing to most of the land for sale SAN PRANCISCO.

in the vicinity of the park; this demand is not fully supplied though, owing to most of the land for sale there being in blocks or acres, which are more than the majority of investors want.

A REMINISCENCE.

Long years have passed, yet I recall
That early love of mine,
The stolen hours, their rapid flight,
Her letters—how divine!
The jewels that I gave to her,
With which she seemed elated:
To every accent of her tongue
I listened, hoped, land waited.

The rarest books I bought for hes,
And pictures, music, flowers;
All gold could buy I freely bought
To cheer her lonely hours:
Oh! how I loved to gaze upon
That hair so nicely plaited;
And, when she sang a simple song,
I listened, hoped, and waited.

One evening in the early June,—
The moon was brightly shining,—
We sat upon a mossy bank,
Or rather were reclining:
Her hand was gently clasped in mine,
While I my love related;
She answered not, but gave a sign—
I listened, hoped, and waited.

We parted there—my hopes were high:
Again we met as over—
How beauteous seemed the earth and sky,
How baimy seemed the weather!
Her face, her form, her mild blue eye,
That hair so smoothly plaited,—
For these I toiled and struggled on;
I listened, hoped, and waited.

But Time, the certain arbiter
Of all our hopes and fears,
That wrinkles e'en the smoothest brow
With swiftly-gilding years.
At last its lesson brought to me,—
A lesson soon related:
My blue-eyed girl—the one for whom
I listened, hoped, and waited—

Had, in a dark and stormy night,
Between the late and early,
Beoporated—left her friends—
That girl I loved so dearly!
And thus my books and jewels rare,
That hair so nicely plaited.
Had gone—with everything for which
I listened, hoped, and waited.

Now ye who try Love's knotty skein
With patience to unravel,
May learn from me that Love's a road
Crooked and hard to travel!
Keep all your books and jewels rare
Until you're wisely mated,
And no'er forget the verdant youth
Whe listened, hoped, and waited!

Blasted Ambition.

Danbury Ness.

He was a small man, but a perfect reservoir of fiquor and language. From 9 o'clock until 11 o'clock, last Saturday night, he carried an eye full of blood about Danbury. He brought up finally in front of McGoffin's salcon, and a small rabble soon gathered about him, awed by his prowess. He was perfectly willing to meet anybody and "whale lightning out of him," but what he particularly craved was the presence of that man in all Danbury who cherished an impression that he could lay him out.

"Were's the man who thinks he can lay me out?" he screamed. Then he would yell: "Whoop!" as a sort of postscript, and spring up into the air.

The crowd stared at him in dismay. He was, without doubt, what he claimed to be, "a regular snorter." He had just delivered the challenge and P. S., and was jumping backwards and squaring eff at 10,000 men at once, when Steve Irving appeared, on his way home with a banket of groceries. Steve is a broad-chested man, and of a height that would make him invaluable in case of a sudden and disastrous flood.

"Are you looking for mal" inquired Steve.

"What's this for?" asked the fighter, having all he could do keep up under the b. n. "I want you to carry it home for me." was he unexpected reply of the giant.
"Carry—it,—" gasped the giadistor in a begildered voice.—" carry—"

"Git," said Steve, opening his large hands in painfully suggestive way.

The rising puglist hastened shead with the ad, looking as if he very much doubted the ability of the universe. THE GAME OF CHESS
